

Utility Chief Hints End of Long Dispute With Roosevelt

Chairman of Consolidated Edison Maps Building Plan

SAYS FEARS LESSEN

Sees Substantial Expansion Under Housing Program

Washington —(AP)—Floyd L. Carlisle, chairman of the Consolidated Edison company, reported after a White House conference today he was in substantial agreement with President's Roosevelt's power views and his company expected to cooperate in the new construction program by spending $100,000,000 in the next two years.

Carlisle gave added indications of progress in the president's efforts to get private power utilities to meet what Mr. Roosevelt calls a crying need for expansion of that industry to help the general business situation.

"I think the fears of government competition are very much lessened by the discussions that have taken place," Carlisle told newsmen as he left the White House.

"I am not in dissent from the president's general views in reference to the basis of rate-making. I am going back to New York with a study of the possibilities of increased expansion we can make in connection with the new national housing program. I expect this will be very substantial in nature."

Plans Expansion
"We are going ahead with expansion of generation and distribution and I am confident there will be markets for power to absorb that expansion."

Mr. Roosevelt said his conversation with President Wendell L. Willkie of the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation yesterday had resulted in distinct progress toward settling differences between the government and private power interests.

Willkie's firm had split earlier this year with the Tennessee Valley authority over a contract arranging for private and public power agencies to operate side by side.

Yesterday's conversation, as outlined by the president to reporters, gave assurance to private interests that federal power output in the future would hold to about the same proportion—some 10 per cent—which it now has to total production.

Bid for Construction
This assurance was interpreted in some quarters as a bid for the private utilities to proceed with a huge construction program. Some officials have said more than $2,000,000,000 expansion work has been delayed by fear of further government competition.

Willkie, speaking of the need of solving the utility question, said: "It (a solution) is so important to the pickup of economic recovery generally and utilities in particular that I come with the best of spirit in the hope of working it out."

He did not discuss his conference in detail, but Mr. Roosevelt quoted him as agreeing it was proper for the government to sell power from its own plants. There appeared to be some question as to whether the sale should be to utilities or to ultimate consumers.

Approves Suggestion
Mr. Roosevelt, who has campaigned for lower rates since he was a New York state legislator 25 years ago, said Willkie expressed personal approval of a suggestion for writing off some 15 per cent of Appleton must pay $371,563.35 as compared to $277,741.31 for this year. The equalized valuation is $44,921,105 with a state tax of $896,434, county tax of $314,832.27, county school tax of $32,182.17, illegal tax of $2,401, tax for charitable institutions $12,781.94 and relief $2,719.62.

Strike Begun at St. Louis Plant

United Auto Pickets Surrounding Ford Assembly Unit

St. Louis —(AP)—Pickets swarmed around the assembly plant of the Ford Motor company today as the United Automobile Workers of America called a strike protesting alleged grievances.

Edmond Garst, regional director of the CIO union, said: "The Ford plant will not operate today. We will maintain the strong picket lines and take whatever steps are necessary to carry out our plans."

Garst has charged that the Ford company discriminated against union members in reemploying workers on a seasonal layoff; forced workers to sign loyalty pledges and fostered a company union.

Milton N. Johnson, plant manager, has denied the charges. Several men entered the plant on foot with police escorts to the jeers of the pickets and many cars entered with men. There was little apparent activity inside the plant.

Garst and other strike leaders asserted the men entering in cars were not regular Ford employees. At 6:30 a. m. Garst estimated between 1,200 and 1,500 men were in the picket line. Many of these were members of other CIO unions. As squads of police were on duty and they departed for their jobs the pickets lines dwindled rapidly.

Only a few first fights occurred in the early hours of the picketing. Squads of police were on duty and quickly squelched outbreaks.

Pastor Fights Life Term in Slaying Case

Motion for New Trial Stays Sentencing of Rev. C. E. Newton

READY TO APPEAL

Case to Go to Illinois Supreme Court if Motion Is Denied

Pittsfield, Ill. —(AP)—A motion for a new trial automatically stayed sentencing today of the Rev. C. E. Newton to life imprisonment on his conviction for the murder of his former Sunday school teacher, Mrs. Dennis Kelly.

If the motion is denied, the minister's lawyer announced the conviction will be appealed to the Illinois Supreme court.

A jury reached a verdict in 6 hours and 52 minutes. The Missouri country preacher had pleaded he was the victim of circumstances in the brutal hammer-slaying last July of Mrs. Dennis Kelly, 45-year-old mother of Paris, Mo.

"I'm not surprised at the verdict because of prejudice in this case," said the sleepy-eyed pastor calmly when his fate was declared long before dawn.

"I intend to ask for a new trial. I will carry this to a higher court if necessary."

Then the 51-year-old minister conferred briefly with Defense Attorney Martin Turner and was taken back to jail.

Circuit Judge A. Clay Williams, hurriedly summoned from his home when the jury announced it had a verdict at 1:18 a. m. (C. S. T.), did not set a time for formal sentencing but indicated it would be today.

Prosecutor Satisfied
Turner declared "I'm sure it is innocent of any crime. This man is that in my own mind."

Merrill Johnson, youthful state's attorney who read to the jury Newton's purported "confession," slaying his former Sunday school teacher "with something, I think a hammer" the night of last July 12, said: "I'm well satisfied with the decision."

None of the minister's family or friends was with him when he heard the 10 farmers and 2 tradesmen decree that he spend the "rest of his natural life" behind prison bars.

Noel, a son, who testified reluctantly for the state against his father, and Forrest, a defense witness, were in the court room until midnight. Mrs. Newton was at home in Paris, Mo.

Myra Hanan, 37-year-old foster daughter of the preacher and whom he implicated in the murder through testimony in his own defense, did not remain up for the jury's decision. She was a major prosecution witness.

Brussels Conference Suspends Activities

Brussels —(AP)—The Brussels conference on the Chinese-Japanese conflict today adopted in principle a report providing for indefinite suspension of its work.

The report was approved 18 to 1, Italy voting against it. The 19 nations participating in the conference were expected, among themselves on possible ways of bringing peace to the Far East.

The conference remained in session after the vote on the report to hear a special declaration by Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, head of the Chinese delegation.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the United States delegation said Norman H. Davis, head of the delegation, had not yet received a reported invitation to be in London during the forthcoming visit of Camille Chautemps, French premier.

Woman Froze to Death in Garage, Autopsy Reveals

"No Signs of Violence," Doctor States; Domske Freed Today

The case of Antonia Glapa, 48, Milwaukee, found dead in a Brillion garage yesterday, was cleared today with the announcement by a state pathologist that she died of natural causes and with the release of Walter Domske, beet worker, from the Calumet county jail at Chilton.

After examining the body at a Brillion funeral home, Dr. E. L. Tharinger, Milwaukee pathologist, said there "were no signs of violence" and that the woman froze to death.

Edward Eick, Calumet county prosecutor, said at noon today that Domske had been liberated at 11 o'clock this morning after lengthy questioning last night. "He wasn't connected with her death in any way," Eick stated.

Domske was found by deputies on the farm on County Trunk W, town of Askeaton, seven miles north of Brillion, yesterday afternoon. It was there that he, his brother, Antone, and Miss Glapa, their housekeeper, lived.

Eick said that the woman apparently sought shelter in the garage on the night of Nov. 14 after the automobile in which she and Domske were riding crashed into a Brillion hotel.

Marshall Louis Scharf of Brillion stated that the woman disappeared while Domske was being taken to the village jail after the accident.

Released the next morning, Domske has searched for the woman ever since, Eick said, visiting various homes in the vicinity where he thought she might have gone.

The woman's body was found at 10:30 yesterday morning by Glen Seehawer, owner of the Brillion Concrete Works. Seehawer was working in his garage when he noticed the body lying on the floor of a car owned by Arno Bade, 33-year-old Brillion school teacher.

Bade stored his car in Seehawer's garage and had not used it since the night of Nov. 12, two days before Miss Glapa's disappearance. The garage doors had not been locked.

The woman, known to residents of Brillion and vicinity only as Annie, was finally identified yesterday by county health officer and coroner. The two Domske brothers are beet workers.

Wrecking Firm Owner Sentenced to Prison

Chicago —(AP)—Edward Rockwood was sentenced to a one to ten year term in prison on a charge of larceny yesterday after a criminal court prosecutor listed some of the items he was charged with stealing to wit:

It was when Rockwood's workmen (he was the owner of a wrecking firm) were tackling an enormous stone cutting plant after removing the heavy machinery that the police intervened by request of the astonished owner.

150 Special Wardens in 30 Counties During 3-Day Deer Hunting Season

Madison —(AP)—Deer hunters are moving into 30 northern Wisconsin counties for the three-day season opening Friday.

This is the first time since 1925 that deer hunting has been legalized in the state in an odd-numbered year. The conservation department opinion that there was a larger crop of deer, and that many would starve in a severe winter, prompted issuance of an executive order that brought protests from several sources.

A total of 97,958 deer tags, costing $1 each, were issued to hunters last year and the kill reported to the conservation department totalled 28,876. The exact number of tags sold this year will not be known until long after the season ends Sunday.

American Women 'Most Beautiful' Despite Big Feet

Lincoln, Neb. —(AP)—Despite a tendency toward big feet, America is producing "the most beautiful women in the world," Dr. Earl H. Bell, anthropologist at the University of Nebraska, said today.

"The beautiful French women are a myth," Dr. Bell said. "Occasionally you find a French woman who is beautiful, but most of them are not. The great mass of American girls from the girls at the department stores to the most elite, are much more beautiful than girls of foreign countries."

Dr. Bell said this was "especially true of older women. European women tend either to become rawboned or fat and sloppy as they grow older while the American woman tends to hold her youthful figure."

He said feet are growing larger in this country, and cited as proof a study made at Vassar and other girls' colleges. He said the tests disclosed "the modern girl wears shoes at least two sizes larger than the shoes her grandmother wore."

Governor Benson Asks Cum mings to Send Agents to Minneapolis

Minneapolis —(AP)—Governor Elmer A. Benson today asked Attorney General Homer B. Cummings to assign department of justice agents to aid in the solution of the Corcoran assassination as William Mauser, Committee for Industrial Organization leader, reported to police he was ordered "to get out of town or else you will get it."

Mauser, a member of the machinists union which broke with the American Federation of Labor, had charged that the AFL was responsible for "importing slugs" from Chicago to begin a reign of terror.

Mauser told police he received five telephone calls at his home within 20 minutes early today threatening him if he did not leave town. He said two of the calls came while police, summoned shortly after the first call, were at his home.

Governor Benson suggested to Attorney General Cummings the inquiry might be based on charges he said were current that "gangs" were imported from other states."

He said investigation by federal agents may disclose violation of federal as well as state laws. Since Corcoran was killed the night of Nov. 17 shortly after he dumped his car in his garage, several CIO and AFL groups have asked investigations and each charged rival group imported "slugs" for unionization drives.

Campaign Manager for Elder LaFollette Dies

Portland, Ore. —(AP)—Grant Thomas, 75, former schoolmate and west coast campaign manager for Robert LaFollette the elder, died Tuesday from effects of a bullet wound inflicted by a gunman in an attempted holdup 10 years ago.

Thomas graduated in 1881 from an academy connected in connection with Wisconsin State college, which later became Downer college, a girls' school. He later attended the University of Wisconsin with LaFollette.

Madison —(AP)—Grant Thomas, who died at Portland, Ore., yesterday at the age of 75, managed the campaigns of the late Robert M. ## Bodies of Four LaCrosse Boys Found in River

Recovered This Morning After Disappearance Tuesday Afternoon

BROKE THROUGH ICE

Victims Reported Building Shack on Isle Before Tragedy

LaCrosse —(AP)—The bodies of four boys who disappeared yesterday were found in the Isle Le Plume river here this morning. The dead, all of LaCrosse:

Laverne Witt, 10.
Kenneth Riese, 11.
Wayne Riese, 8, a brother.
Raymond Schlicht, 14.

The youngsters disappeared from their homes at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. When they did not return home by nightfall, the parents notified sheriff's officials.

The officials, learning that the boys had been playing in sloughs, searched until 2:30 a. m. without results and then gave up.

Locate Bodies
Resuming the search at 6:30 a. m., Sheriff O. B. Woll of LaCrosse and police found a spot broken through the ice in the river. The bodies were found a short time later.

Special Catholic church services permitted the boys to be out of school yesterday. It was reported they had been building a shack on Isle Le Plume, and were last seen by Leonard Alberts, as they apparently were leaving the slough area.

The sheriff's department was not notified the boys were missing until 10:30 p. m. Then with the aid of flashlights, a hole was found in the ice through which the four bodies were recovered within a one-hour period this morning.

Former Postmaster General in Declining Health For Months

Austin, Texas —(AP)—Albert Sidney Burleson, 74, postmaster general in the cabinet of President Woodrow Wilson, died here today. Death occurred at his home where he had been in declining health for some months.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Adele Steiner Burleson, three daughters, Mrs. E. D. Negley of San Antonio, Mrs. Charles Grimes of Dayton, Ohio, and Mrs. Bryant Smith of Austin; two sisters, and six grandchildren.

Burleson withdrew from public life when his second term as postmaster general ended. He was cabinet member from 1913 to 1921. Previously he had served eight terms as a representative in congress.

During the World war he had an active hand in the postal service's work with the selective draft, the conservation of food and fuel, distribution of industrial forces and the sale of bonds and war savings and thrift stamps.

Members of the family said a private funeral service would be held this afternoon.

Suggests Improvement In Bank-Farm Relations

Champaign, Ill. —(AP)—Suggestions for improvement of banker-farmer relationships for their mutual benefit were advanced yesterday at the closing session of the third annual conference on banking at the University of Illinois.

Dan H. Otis of Madison, Wis., director of the American Bankers' association, commission on agriculture, reported the suggestions, developed in a survey of Illinois financial and agricultural leaders.

The survey proposed that farmers keep farm accounts, study business management, keep abreast of modern farm practices, make better use of banking facilities, and invite bankers to participate in their meetings.

It suggested to the bankers that they acquire a better understanding of farm problems, cooperate with farm and agricultural groups, extend credit on terms required by farm conditions at reasonable rates, increase contacts with farms, and stress sound farm practices.

Senate Committee To Ask Congress to End 'Labor Abuses'

Washington —(AP)—The senate civil liberties committee, Senator Thomas (D-Utah) said today, will ask the 1938 session of congress to remedy "labor abuses" which he said were disclosed by extensive investigations.

These recommendations probably will be made, Thomas said: 1. A curb on labor espionage among industries engaged in interstate commerce.

2. Regulation of the sale of munitions and tear gas to industrial plants.

3. Additional federal restrictions aimed at strike breaking. The committee has held hearings on various types of anti-union practices in industry.

Idaho Senator Says Measure Is Constitutional

HOUSE MARKS TIME

Subcommittee Starts Considering 'Nuisance Taxes'

Washington —(AP)—A house subcommittee temporarily put aside corporate tax studies today to consider other levies.

While the tax subcommittee surveyed "nuisance taxes"—those on movies, cosmetics and the like—the senate heard an agriculture committee member say the pending farm bill was constitutional.

The bill, Senator Pope (D-Idaho) asserted, was based on the constitution's interstate commerce clause rather than on the general welfare provision that was the basis of the invalidated agricultural adjustment act.

The house agriculture committee, meanwhile, completed drafting its crop control bill, companion to the senate farm measure.

Convening of the house itself was marked by delaying tactics on the part of opponents of the wages and hours bill. Today was calendar Wednesday and theoretically at least the wage-hour measure could be called up for a vote, unless the house program is delayed.

Force Roll Call
The opponents first move was to force a roll call which requires at least a half hour.

If, and when, the wage-hour bill reaches the floor, labor committee members were prepared to offer an amendment to place administration of its provisions under the labor department instead of a five-member board.

Chairman Norton told newsmen this action was agreed upon in an effort to eliminate "the most serious objection" to the legislation.

She said she planned to inform the house today that an amendment to effect the change would be offered by the committee "if and when the bill reaches the floor."

In the field of foreign relations, Senator Lewis (D-Ill.) advanced a plan for immediate payment of war debts.

While business tax repeal was being urged by many congressmen—including Republican house members—and business men, administration leaders refused again to put the corporate levy revision on the special session program.

The leaders said January was the earliest time that the subject could be debated, even though a house subcommittee had approved tentatively a substitute for the widely opposed corporate tax law.

The new bill, virtually abandoned the theory of taxing undistributed corporate profits.

The Republican resolution was adopted unanimously late yesterday at a special caucus attended by 62 of the party's 90 house members.

They declared immediate repeal was necessary "in view of a distressing increase in unemployment during the last six weeks," and asked congress to make the repeal retroactively effective on this year's corporate incomes.

Increases Confidence
Chairman Vinson (D-Ky.) of the tax subcommittee said, however, he believed the new system "couldn't keep from having a good effect on business confidence now, even if the revision is not carried out until congress meets next year."

Democratic Leader Barkley of the senate expressed a similar view.

While public attention centered on the tax maneuvers, the senate began a serious debate on the new farm bill.

The first day of discussion yesterday was virtually wasted, however, for few senators were familiar enough with the complicated measure to explain it. Chairman Smith (D-S. C.) of the agriculture committee said he could not estimate the cost of the program.

Prospects for special session enactment of the wage-hour bill meanwhile became still darker. Despite an unusual appeal from Democratic Leader Rayburn for signatures on a petition to pry the measure out of the house rules committee, 49 names were lacking. Proponents of the bill began a personal canvass to obtain the additional signatures—a tactic rarely necessary on an administration measure.

Britain Seeking Accord on Reich Demands, Report

French Premier and Foreign Minister to Accept Invitation

London—(AP)—Great Britain has invited the French premier and foreign minister to London to formulate a joint policy on Germany's demands in Europe, reliable quarters disclosed today.

Diplomats said the French statesmen, "undoubtedly" would accept the invitation and study with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden the future of the hitherto well-established British-French policy of collective security based upon the League of Nations.

This policy was said to have been challenged as a result of what was described as Chancellor Adolf Hitler's demands to Viscount Halifax, Britain's goodwill ambassador, during his recent visit with the Führer.

The proposed British talks with Premier Camille Chautemps and Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos were expected to be more than a conference on Halifax's discussions with Hitler. Informed sources saw them as preparation for Delbos' coming tour of European capitals.

Before the cabinet met this morning Halifax had a private half hour with Chamberlain.

Principal Demands

Hitler's main demands, according to a consensus of the British press, were:

1. Recognition of Germany's right to colonies in return for German willingness to delay action on colonies for six years.
2. A free hand for Germany to obtain the return to the Reich of her national minorities in Austria and Czechoslovakia, with the reservation that Germany was not to use force.
3. A four-power agreement among Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy.

Germany would not return to the League of Nations, it was stated, until these conditions were fulfilled.

Informed quarters declared the conditions would be impossible without the abandonment of the British-French collective security policy which makes a guarantee of Russian and European frontiers as much a part of a general settlement as a western European agreement.

The first indication that France and Great Britain would meet the German problem jointly came from Delbos, who announced the two countries planned to establish a "common viewpoint" soon.

Ask Import Duties On Casein Buttons Stay in Trade Pact

Farmers Petition Administration to Protect Wisconsin Product

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Wisconsin dairy farmers in letters to congressmen and President Roosevelt are asking that the present duties on imported buttons made of casein, by-product of Wisconsin's dairy industry, be maintained in the trade agreement now being negotiated with Czechoslovakia, the Wisconsin Dairyman's News, organ of the Wisconsin Milk Pool, reported today.

Charles W. Holman of the National Cooperative Milk Producers federation, the paper reported, has taken the position that dairy farmers must develop non-food domestic markets for their products, and that the casein industry provides such a market outlet, especially for the skim produced by the state's creameries.

Importance of the casein market to Wisconsin's dairy industry is shown by recent official figures from the state department of agriculture which show that the state last year produced almost 16 million pounds, compared with a United States production of 46 million pounds.

Casein is commonly made from skim milk and its manufacture follows closely the butter industry in Wisconsin. From casein science has made a large number of articles now in common use, including buttons, radio insulating plates, knobs, combs, pipe stems, door knobs, points and glue.

Harry Klueber, head of the dairy and food division of the state department of agriculture, explains that casein is not new in Wisconsin, but that the many uses to which it is being put are. Originally the product was used primarily in the manufacture of glue for paper glazing. During the war casein glue was found to be the best glue available for aeroplane building because of its water resisting qualities.

Five Rural Power Cooperatives are Finished in State

25 More Electric Projects in Various Stages of Construction

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Only five rural electric power cooperatives have been completely built and energized in Wisconsin to date, 25 others are in various stages of construction, and $5,640,500 has been allotted to Wisconsin by the federal rural electrification administration, according to a survey made here.

Beginning operations about 18 months ago, the REA to date has brought electricity to 3,422 farm families over a 1,101 mile area, according to the office of John Beck, state director. When present allotments have been spent approximately 17,000 farm families will have the use of electricity over an area embracing more than 6,000 square miles.

The REA contends that it takes about 12 months between the time an allocation of funds is made in Washington and all the electric poles erected and energy brought to the farmer members of a specific cooperative.

First Cooperative
First cooperative in the state to be completed was the Richland county cooperative, which now serves 752 customers with 267 miles of lines. Others finished are the Columbus Rural Electric cooperative, Head of the Lakes cooperative, Douglas county, Oakdale Cooperative Electric association, and the Rock county electric cooperative.

Among the cooperatives whose work is now under way is the Oconto county group, which has received $220,000 which is being used to furnish electricity over 305 miles of lines for 1,000 farm family customers.

The largest cooperative in the state, the Clark county cooperative, will serve 2,087 farmers over 674 miles of lines at a cost of $700,000, and is now under construction. It is expected to be completed by spring.

The high cost of setting up a cooperative, according to Becker, is due to the fact that in rural areas the farms are widely separated and it costs about $1,000 to build a mile of line to service three persons.

Recession Is 'Temporary And Artificial,' Ford Says In Interview at Detroit

Detroit—(AP)—Henry Ford, in an interview today, said that the present business recession is "temporary and artificial."

"No one," he said, "need look at next year with any uncertainty. The present slow-down is not a setback; it's the pause, before another climb. Two things helped to bring it on just now and one of them was the uncertainty of business regarding political interference; but congress is taking care of that. The other was the stock market fluctuation."

"Everybody knows the stock market has no permanent effect on business, but it does have an effect on the state of mind of the American business man who plays the market. He often mistakes his personal depression for a business depression. The stock market has no more real effect on American business than the results of a big race in California."

Tail Wags Dog
A contributing factor to the present "pause," Ford said, has been the fact that money too long has been a "principal commodity of commerce."

"Money," he said, "has become a business in itself instead of an adjunct to business. Money is not wealth; wealth is what money buys. But that has been turned upside down. The present system got us twisted into producing things to buy dollars with, when what we need is a money system that will produce dollars to buy goods with. Under the present system the tail wags the dog. Money is just part of society's transportation system for moving goods from man to man; it breaks down so often that it is time our financial engineers developed a better model."

Out-of-Date System
The present money system as exemplified by those "who manipulate it for profit," Ford said, is entirely out-of-date, and is in large measure responsible for recurring business recessions. "It is a system that seeks to control labor; wants to control government, finance, food, industry and even the schools. It manifests an aversiveness that would control everything."

Ford explained that he had no overnight panacea for what he termed the out-moded money system, "But system," he added, "that seeks profits alone is terribly handicapped to begin with."

"Here is a nation that might be the richest nation in the world when actually we haven't enough of anything, because there is not enough production. The need is

Massy Outlines Progress Under County Program

Tells Supervisors About Work on Numerous Projects

Waupaca—The 1937 county agricultural program was planned on a basis of present trends in agriculture, existing emergencies, needs of farmers and farm families, and with a view of cooperating with state and federal agricultural agencies, County Agent George F. Massey told the board of supervisors this week.

The agricultural committee, L. W. Eastling, Manawa, chairman; William Brandenberg, Marion; Reid Murray, Waupaca; William Kramer, Fremont, and C. H. Bachner, Waupaca, in cooperation with a representative of the college of agriculture and the United States department of Agriculture, after carefully considering all available facts, outlined the work of the county agent for the year.

The program included the following projects on which educational, demonstrational and promotional work was to be done: 4-H club; livestock improvement, which included Bang's testing, better bull program, herd improvement associations and quality milk; soil improvement, including lime and marl production, soil testing, windbreak and shelter-belt planting; crop improvement, potatoes, seed grain inspection, alfalfa promotion; agricultural conservation; miscellaneous, which included cooperating with farm credit agencies, poultry, home economics, farm management, state fair exhibit, fur farming, rural electrification, community club activities; personal service, office calls, farm visits and correspondence.

4-H Clubs Increase

This has been an especially successful 4-H club year, according to Mr. Massey, with 31 clubs organized and 473 members and 71 leaders. Not only were more clubs organized but the quality of the work done by the members has been superior to previous years.

Twenty different projects were carried by 4-H members with a total of 696 projects being carried on within the county.

Exhibits of 4-H club work were made at the Waupaca county fair at Weyauwega, at Scandinavia and at Rosholt. A total of 1,104 exhibits were made at Weyauwega for which club members were paid $724.45 in premiums. Glenn Householder of the state board of control, who judged at the Weyauwega fair, indicated that the 4-H Guernsey calf exhibit was the best he had judged at any fair during this season up to the time of the fair.

Four-H members also represented the county at the state fair, Mr. Massey said, in the dairy, grain, and home economics judging contests. In addition Eva Thompson, a member of the Wisconsin Ridge Girls 4-H club, took part in the state dairy queen contest which also was held at the state fair.

There are close to 4,500 rural boys and girls in Waupaca county of 4-H club age. Therefore there is a large field for expansion of club work providing the necessary leadership can be secured.

Push Bang's Tests

Bangs testing has been continued in the county during the year, reported Mr. Massey, under the present government program. The industry said that is now being paid by the state is available only in counties that have secured sufficient signers for the area test.

At present there are 755 cattle owners who are testing under the federal program; 156 of these persons have certified herds. So far, according to Mr. Massey's report, 553,825 pounds of paid cattle owners in this county as indemnity for cattle that have reacted.

Two herd improvement associations with 825 cows under test are now in operation in the county and no doubt, according to Massey, the owners of the herds are some of the best dairymen. Some of the reasons which he stated for that being true are: 59 per cent used purebred sires; 81 per cent grow alfalfa; 50 per cent have been tested and are known to be free from Bang's disease, farm management is studied through the help of the association testers.

Through cooperation of Waupaca County Livestock Breeders' association, a plan was organized to help herd owners, unable to purchase a good sire, a finance such a purchase. The program is in operation with a few bulls already placed, said Massey.

During the last year the Waupaca County Livestock Breeders' association was organized and has been incorporated under the laws of the state. Much has already been accomplished on two of the projects under its sponsorship—the better bull program and a program of parasite control in horses.

To aid in crop improvement four programs have been carried out during the year: potato growers secured seed from outside sources, seed grain and corn inspections were made, five farm institutes were held and the grasshopper and cutworm control program was carried out.

Waupaca county potato growers have faced unusual difficulties during the last few years. High temperatures and a program of diseases for the development of potatoes that have affected both the quality and the growing potatoes, and the absence of rainfall has greatly reduced yields.

Disease Cuts Yield
"Yellow dwarf," a comparatively new disease, made its appearance in a high percentage of the potato fields and it is the principal cause

Oil Trial Jurors Unable to Go Home For Thanksgiving

Madison—(AP)—Most of the principal in the federal government's gasoline price fixing case were homeward bound today for their Thanksgiving dinners—all but the jurors and the bailiffs who guard them.

United States Marshal John Comerford and his staff planned no special Thanksgiving celebration for their charges but promised the 14 jurors—the 12 regular jurors and 2 spares—the choice dinner on the menu of the hotel where they are quartered.

Time has weighed rather heavily upon the "good men and true," who haven't been in court since Nov. 12, when the government rested its case.

Since then attorneys have argued defense motions for directed verdicts of acquittal, and already the case has narrowed down to 16 oil companies and 41 executives and minor employees. Originally three market publications, 23 oil companies and 46 individuals went to trial here seven weeks ago.

Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone has under advisement the motions for the individual defendants and he has indicated he is "concerned" over whether all of them should have their cases submitted to the jury or whether some should be freed before the defense begins its evidence next Monday.

Aldermen to Study 1938 City Budget at Meeting

Aldermen at a committee of the whole meeting last night studied departmental budgets with the view of shaving estimated expenditures to bring the 1938 city budget within range of a $22 tax rate. Salaries were discussed but no action was taken on any budget items. The committee adjourned until 7 o'clock tonight to continue discussions.

Milwaukee CIO in Plea For Emergency Conclave

Milwaukee—(AP)—The Milwaukee County Industrial Union (CIO) today asked A. F. of L. and independent labor groups in Milwaukee county to join the CIO in an emergency conference to outline plans for returning men to work.

The CIO invitation, announced by Meyer Adelman, council secretary, charged that employers have gone on a sit-down strike against recovery, and that 20,000 men have been laid off in the county in the last two months.

Of the poor stands that have been so noticeable this year. If such weather conditions continue it appears that in order to continue growing potatoes, it will be necessary to secure seed from northern counties where the "valley dwarf" does not exist, Mr. Massey reported. Some assistance was given farmers in securing good seed during the last year, a small shipment of Irish Cobbler being brought in from Prince Edward Isle, Canada. Continued assistance is being planned to assist growers to meet the present problems.

Mr. Massey reported that grasshoppers and cutworms have been increasing in numbers for several years, and that special studies are now under way at the experiment stations in an effort to discover more about the habits of cutworms so that control measures might be more effective. Fall plowing and the use of poison bait are now the two recommended methods of control.

Efforts have been made to keep grasshoppers under control through the use of poisoned bait. However, in recent years, control measures have not been put into effect soon enough in order to secure the maximum control, he said.

Several fields were inspected during the last year in cooperation with the Wisconsin Experiment association, in connection with the certification of seed grain for seed. In addition inspections of available hybrid seed corn are to be made this fall when the necessary sampling will also be done.

Lime Still Needed
Marl and lime production continues for there is still considerable land yet to be limed. The WPA lime and marl program was discontinued in Waupaca county Feb. 15, 1937, and since that time production and distribution has been continued on a private setup.

Through the windbreak and shelterbelt planting program it is hoped that protection can be given fields that need it, and also provide windbreaks for farm buildings to protect them against cold winds as well as to control the drifting of snows in farm yards. Sixty-two thousand trees were distributed during the last year for the purpose.

Seed loan applications through the Farm Credit administration have been received at the office of the county agent, he stated, completing a total of 82 applications, about half of which were approved.

Old-Fashioned Thanksgiving Dinners On Menu for Prisoners and Patients

Those old-fashioned Thanksgiving dinners that poems and stories have been written about will be a reality to prisoners of the county jail and detention camp and patients of the county asylum and Riverview sanatorium Thursday.

The thought of being a prisoner at the county jail might easily be changed from an unpleasant one to one of anticipation on Thanksgiving day for Mrs. John Lappen, wife of the sheriff, has forgotten nothing in making the meal complete, even to a fruit cocktail. Following the cocktail will be piping hot cream of tomato soup, and then crisp, brown roast turkey with oyster dressing. There also will be cranberry sauce, radishes, celery, pickles, mashed potatoes and gravy, squash, hot rolls and butter, coffee and assorted fruit. The meal will be topped off with pumpkin pie and whipped cream.

Roast turkey also is the order for the day at the Riverview sanatorium. The dinner will include dressing, mashed potatoes and gravy, celery, olives, cranberries, squash, rolls and milk. There will be hot mince pie and pumpkin pie for those able to eat more after the first courses are served.

Roast chicken, the way mother used to make it, will mark the Thanksgiving dinner at the county detention camp. Along with it will be dressing, mashed potatoes and other trimmings. Pumpkin pie will be the final course.

One of those Thanksgiving dinners that have established the reputation of Mrs. Thomas Flanagan, matron at the county asylum, as a first class cook will be served at that institution Thursday. There will be roast chicken, mashed potatoes, cranberry jelly, hot rolls and butter, coffee and pumpkin pie with home-made ice cream.

Fremont Man Head Of Good Will Tour

Train Will Advertise Wisconsin Products, Resources
Madison—Encouraged by contributions of money by three county boards, state officials said here yesterday they are beginning preparations for Wisconsin's Good Will tour, which will leave the capital city in February on a two weeks' tour of the south and east with copious exhibits of Wisconsin's agricultural, industrial and recreational resources.

Counties which have already appropriated money to the project are Waupaca, Outagamie and Marathon, and it is expected that state departments will arrange for other contributions from various state aid, advertising and promotion funds. Clearing houses for the tour will be the office of W. G. Carlson, publicity director of the department of agriculture.

General chairman of the tour, which was authorized by a legislative resolution sponsored by Senator Herman J. Severson of Waupaca county, is George H. Dobbins, Fremont, who has announced that the train will pass through 14 states and stop at 26 cities to tell the nation of the products and resources of the state and its people.

Unemployed Salesman Found Shot to Death

New York—(AP)—Arthur P. Steinbring, 35, unemployed salesman, father of a 5-week-old baby, was found shot to death in his hotel room today, a .32 calibre automatic and numerous notes at his side.

One note directed that his personal belongings be sent to his brother, Dr. E. F. Steinbring, of a route 3, Wilmington, Del. Another salesman, Theodore Brann, Metuchen, N. J., identified Steinbring's body and said Steinbring's wife and baby are living in Chicago. His father lived at Ripon, Wis.

"I am so depressed at this time—so lonely—I can think of nothing else," said one note. "My laundry needs cleaning, my clothes need pressing, and I cannot go out to look for work."

Orchestra Leader Pledges Insurance To Win His Release

Kanakee, Ill.—(AP)—Don Bestor's $3,000 paid-up life insurance paid him dividends in the form of freedom today.

The orchestra leader gained his release from the county jail last night after pledging the insurance for the support of his son, Bartley, 16.

He was arrested after finishing a theater engagement in Joliet, Ill., Sunday night, on a writ obtained by his former wife, Mrs. Hatti Catton. She charged he was in arrears in his payments.

Judge William R. Hunter reduced the band leader's support payments from $100 a month to $60 a month after he pleaded a reduced income.

The musician left immediately for Cincinnati to rejoin his band. Asked if he had any comment, Bestor said:

"I could write a book—but I won't."

President Attacks Utility Problem In Right Manner

Has Moved Forward Negotiations Toward Settlement, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — President Roosevelt has moved forward the negotiations between the utilities and the government looking toward a settlement of pending controversies with a view toward resumption of utility construction.

The president himself revealed some of the fundamentals which had been discussed with Wendell Willkie, head of the commonwealth and southern one of the progressive leaders of the industry, but Mr. Willkie, in deference to the White House, made no statement.

But from Mr. Roosevelt's disclosure, and from what Frank R. McNinch, former chairman of the Federal Power commission, told the press afterwards, it is plain that the method of valuing the utility properties is not by any means an insuperable obstacle to the making of a settlement.

Thus it is the state commissions, in the final analysis, who take into consideration both the "prudent investment" and the "reproduction cost new" theories in finding out what is to be the basis for ratemaking, and even if a property is worth only $250,000, and a company bought it for $1,250,000, the state commission which makes the valuation is likely to fix rates closer to the $250,000 original price than the purchase price if there has been overbidding or an exaggerated appraisal.

The question of "write-ups," which the Federal Trade commission discussed in its voluminous reports, is easily disposed of because here, too, the problem is one of fact-finding, unless, of course, the utilities and the government now wish to accept some stipulated method of determining values for the securities issued.

Just how the valuation arbitrarily placed on a utility property by the Federal Trade commission or the Federal Power commission or any other federal body would be binding upon a state commission is rather difficult to follow, so, if Mr. Willkie and the president discussed any plan for putting into effect such a new scheme, it will certainly be confronted with various legal reorganizations.

No Choice
The important thing is that a leader of the utility industry and the president of the United States got down to fundamentals. Certainly, if an agreement is reached as to the operations of the public utility holding company act and if it is constitutional for that law to require simplification of corporate structures, stockholders would have no choice but to accept the federal government's fiat.

This brings up the question of whether any settlement can be retroactive and what the effect on existing securities would be if a new method of valuation were introduced that is at variance with the method in effect for nearly a half century. It would seem to be more plausible for the plan, whatever it is to be applied to a future date and thus protect future investments rather than to apply any new rule toward properties already valued by state commissions.

The big problem, after all, is not to convince Mr. Willkie what the government wants done and not to persuade the president what the utility executives would like to see done, but to make the investors with capital feel that, in parting with their money, they have some assurance of a fair return on their investment. For the investors are the ones who with their funds are going to do the "putting-in" and stimulate construction and employment.

These investors, moreover, are not going to rush in to buy common stocks of utilities just because the president and Mr. Willkie find a meeting of minds on how utility properties should be valued. What is more important is what form of competition the government itself will hold over the heads of the utilities and the investors. Will there be a resumption of grants to municipalities? Will there be seven TVAs? Will the holding company act be amended so that there is clear understanding of what is meant by utility systems that are "geographically integrated?"

These are the questions which have yet to be settled, and the answer will be sought in Mr. Roosevelt's attitude toward the utilities of the future. The first conference undoubtedly brought out conciliatory point of view, with plenty of room for adjustment of viewpoints as the conferences progress.

Mr. Roosevelt is doing something he might well have done three years ago, but it is an old saying that it is better to do some things late than never at all. And the penetrating way the president has dug into the facts of the utility problem by calling the practical men of the industry to conference and consultation is an encouraging sign of the times.

Remove Shrubbery as Safety Measure at Clintonville

Clintonville—As a safety measure the shrubbery is being removed from the boulevards along each side of N. Main street, the work being done by the street department. Unless the property owner wishes to transplant the shrubs into his own yard, they are being planted in Central park. Dozens of bridal wreath bushes along the thoroughfare furnished a beautiful sight for about a week while they were in bloom each spring, but it is believed that they constituted a hazard to motorists during the remainder of the year. Most of the bushes had grown to be so large that it is difficult to see children or adults who are about to cross the street.

City employees are this week at work decorating the electric light posts for the holiday season. Each standard is being trimmed with evergreen boughs to which strings of colored lights will later be added. The association of commerce each year sponsors the project. A son was born Nov. 19 to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ruppenthal of this city at the New London Community hospital.

A daughter, Joyce Virginia, was born Nov. 17 to Mr. and Mrs. Chester Piehl at their home on Tenth street.

Large Farms Net Greater Income, Report Reveals

Tax Assessments Generally Grow With Increase Of Land

Madison — The farm and dairy records office of the University of Wisconsin College of Agriculture summarized the operation records of 611 Wisconsin farmers today with an analysis of tax assessments.

Don Anderson and P. E. McNall, who made the study, reported that farms of approximately the same size in any community usually are taxed about the same amount, regardless of income productivity.

"It is observed from the records of farmers who co-operated," they said, "that those receiving the best incomes in the main tended to operate larger than average farms."

Their analysis pointed out that tax assessments generally grow with an increase more rapidly than the tax rate.

"The kind of farm property owned is a poor indication of the ability of the operator to pay taxes," they commented.

Some of the farmers whose records were studied had upward of $250 left to pay living expenses of their families after they had paid all farm expenses for the year.

"On the average," the report stated, "the taxes amounted to nearly $4 per cent of these small net incomes. In contrast, those with excellent net incomes of more than $3,500 paid only in the neighborhood of 5 per cent of that sum in taxes."

Lang Appointed As Chairman of Joint Committee

Kimberly and Combined Locks Seek Agreement On Sewage Plant Survey

Kimberly — Village president Lloyd Lang was appointed chairman of a joint committee on sewage disposal plant at a meeting at the village hall Monday evening of the Kimberly and Combined Locks village boards. Martin Williams, Combined Locks, was named vice chairman and A. J. Courchane, Kimberly, secretary.

President Lang outlined the problem confronting the two villages and gave estimates on costs of constructing a sewage disposal plant. He pointed out that there were two items to be considered at present. One was the securing of a complete preliminary survey of the two villages with a view of getting reliable estimates and information on the cost and kind of plant to be constructed.

The other item is "who is going to pay for the preliminary survey." Both groups were in favor of the state's program of cleaning up the Fox river and aim to complete the work as soon as possible. After a lengthy discussion it was agreed to meet again the latter part of December in an effort to reach an agreement as to the method of payment for the preliminary survey and discuss the securing of engineering service.

It also was agreed that a visit to the Kaukauna and Appleton sewage disposal plants would be made. Members of the Combined Locks board attending the meeting were Martin Williams, village president, Mrs. L. Schuler, secretary, Walter Lopas, Nick Lom, William Erickson, Edward Lindberg, L. Weyenberg and Edward Kemps.

Kimberly board members are: Lloyd Lang, president; Paul Lockschmidt, clerk; Joe Kuborn, Henry Kilsdonk, John Busch, Martin Van Heeswyk, A. J. Courchane and Henry Melcher.

Scions Dress That Way to Preserve Their Identity

BY WESTBROOK FEGLER

New York—According to the census figures for 1900, there were then only 18,000 tuxedos, or dinner jackets, in the entire United States, 14,000 of which were concentrated on the eastern seaboard between Bar Harbor and Washington, including 322 at Yale, six at Princeton and one at Amherst. The Yale football captain of that year, with four, owned more of these costumes than were registered in the entire state of Minnesota.

The 4,000 held outside the relatively small seaboard zone were scattered all over the country and were regarded as a mark of high social position.

With the development of college life, however, there was a corresponding increase in the number of tuxedos. They were placed in mass production and for a time in the early 1930s were sold for as little as $25, one flight up. The latest figures of the American tuxedo institute report that there were more than 22,000,000 tuxedos on the active list, or less than five years old, in 1935, including 185 at De Pauw university, 40 at Texas A. and M. and a like number of the Colorado School of Mines.

With these figures as an index, it is easy to understand the lust for information as to correct manners, which accounts for the rise of the many arbiters of the newspapers who daily solve such perplexities as what to do in case of fried chicken with golden gravy—i. e., whether to pick it up or damn well starve, and whether to tip one's hat first to a lady or wait until she gives one the office. This one isn't solved yet, because if he tips first she can charge him with accosting, and if she gives him the come-on he might be just heel enough to charge her with soliciting. You still have to proceed at your own risk.

Fashionable Society—Has Expanded Into Millions. In fact, in the last few years the tuxedo has become so common that it is no longer correct to call it a tuxedo. The more sophisticated exquisites (how exquisite you are looking this evening, Butch!) prefer the simpler form "black tie," which means a black tie, as distinguished from the "white," or white, tie. And now the old-fashioned true aristocrats and their scions have started a movement away from correct dress and from correct manners, too, in order to preserve their identity. It just got so that everybody was correct and practiced good manners, with the result that a fashionable playboy scion and club man was indistinguishable from any janitor's or carpenter's son, who incidentally, is more than half likely to call himself a superintendant's son or a contractor's son.

Playboy Scions Now Go Around Like Bums. Well, anyway, with every Joe Dokes and Mike Swift wearing a tuxedo or black tie and passing charming remarks at the ladies after the manner of the old-time Astors and Vanderbilts and all, the fashionable playboy scions and club men decided to go around looking like a lot of bums and to act like bums by way of proving that they do not belong to the lower social orders. So now they show up at the night clubs and the debut parties in brown suits or sweaters and old golf shoes, worn, of course, with that soignée, I believe the word is, air by which you know that they have a dozen black tie suits at home—and get steaming drunk and proposition little dolls around 16-18 years old and yank their hair and slap them around until they finally get tossed downstairs.

And the black tie stuffs who think they are being socially hot because they dress and act as the books say don't realize that their dress and conduct mark them as social inferiors. They aren't observant enough to notice that a real society scion is more likely to slug his doll than pay her pretty compliments and leave her standing on the curb to find her own way home at 3 a. m. if she won't go to his friend's flat with him. The friend is down to Princeton for the week-end.

You wait until the masses catch up with society and start imitating the scions in this new mode of dress and conduct. Brother, there's going to be a run on old corduroys and the greatest clutter that the courts have ever known of simple and criminal assault.

Potatoes Good as Livestock Feed When Used Right

State Expert Gives Some Advice in Fixing Up Rations

In a year like this, when considerable quantities of potatoes will likely be fed on the farm, many questions usually arise about best ways of feeding them to the different kinds of livestock, according to R. C. Swanson, Outagamie county agricultural agent.

Gus Bohstedt, of the state college of agriculture, gives some helpful suggestions on the use of potatoes, whether they should be fed raw or cooked and the best amounts to feed for good results. He reports, for instance, that potatoes may be fed raw to cattle, horses, and sheep but at times give better results if cooked. Potatoes that are fed to pigs or dairy calves should always be cooked.

In determining how much potatoes to feed cattle, Bohstedt counts potatoes the same as corn silage. If they are to take the place of part of the grain, then it takes four pounds of potatoes to equal one pound of corn. Raw potatoes fed to cattle should always be sliced with a root cutter or a shovel. Experiments have shown that dairy cows may be fed as much as 40 pounds of potatoes a day but that they may tire of them after several months of feeding. While clean, raw potatoes do not taint the milk, care should be taken not to let potatoes in the area of the barn if odors are to be avoided.

Best Results

Pigs give the best results from feeding potatoes of any livestock, but the potatoes should be cooked and not take the place of more than half of the usual ration. Sheep are most particular about potatoes. Bohstedt finds, as they object to them if dirty or diseased. If fed raw to sheep, potatoes should be sliced or else cooked before feeding.

When potatoes are fed to hogs, care should be taken that only the clean, sound ones are used and then not fed in too large quantities. In winter rations or rations for idle work horses, as many as 30 pounds of freshly steamed potatoes have been fed with hay and grain.

Potatoes have not been found very satisfactory for chickens. If fed, the proportion of protein in the mash should be increased accordingly by using more meat scraps or by increasing the amount of skim milk. This rule also applies to pigs.

POSTPONE MEETING

The Appleton Junior Workers club will not meet this week because of the Thanksgiving vacation. It was announced today. A meeting had been scheduled for Friday evening.

Nearly All Turkeys Gracing Appleton Tables Will Be Native Wisconsin Stock

POULTS

The turkey clan's "chicks" are called poults. Here a young woman exhibits a poult on the half-shell.

AT THREE WEEKS

Doing nicely, thank you, are these young "turks." They are three weeks old and beginning to look like turkeys.

The turkey you'll eat on Thanksgiving Day may come from down the Hilbert way or have first strutted his stuff on a farm near Eau Claire, but the odds are way up that he's from Wisconsin.

Most Appleton meat dealers are purchasing their birds from this vicinity and a few will have turkeys for sale that were raised in the western part of the state. There'll be some gobblers from Texas, but they're not the best to be had and aren't particularly popular with housewives.

Scientific feeding, which has been practiced on babies and overweight adults for some time now, is the new note in turkey raising, according to an Appleton butcher, who says that "it's the coming thing and pretty soon housewives won't take any other kind of bird except those that have had that kind of raising."

Such an improvement on the taste of turkeys does this scientific feeding make, the butchers related, that one company offers reliable farmers free brooders and feed just to raise the gobblers on a commission basis.

"The plan is only in its infancy," the butcher said, "but it's the coming thing." Prices on the turkey that will dominate your Thanksgiving table will range from 28 to 40 cents a pound, according to Appleton dealers, depending on the quality. Texas turkeys, for example, are cheaper. They're just as big as Wisconsin gobblers, but their frames don't carry the weight. The birds that you see in meat market windows weigh from eight to about 22 pounds.

The number of turkeys throughout the land is about 10 per cent lower than last year. High feed costs and relatively low turkey prices a year ago discouraged enough producers so that there is a discernible decrease in gobbler production. But in Wisconsin, the crop has jumped about 12 per cent, according to the state department of agriculture.

Wisconsin turkey raisers have indicated that about 65 per cent of the birds they have on hand are being offered for the Thanksgiving trade. Thirty-two per cent will be spared the chopping block until Christmas and only 3 per cent until after the first of the year.

FATTENING

The turkey's only concern at this stage is food, which is all right with the growers who fatten them for market during summer and fall.

READY FOR THE AX

rate business would be sounder if the big corporations had to go into the open market for their new capital. But this involves a radical change in the financial mechanism of business, and unless it is introduced very gradually and cautiously, the result is bound to be a stoppage of the capital supply.

The present law is neither gradual nor cautious. It performs a surgical operation on the heart of business and it does the operation with a meat ax. There can be little doubt that right here, in this tax, we have a principal cause of the failure of private investment to replace public spending.

Market for Capital Has Been Made Narrow and Thin

What seems to have happened is this: For a hundred years the normal way of supplying business with capital has been to plow back profits. Suddenly the New Deal abolished this method of financing business by levying a punitive tax. Suddenly it had created a new system which made it necessary for

In theory there is a great deal to be said for the principle of this tax, and I am disposed to believe that in the long run the system of corporate

State Has Record Cranberry Crop, Survey Reveals

Wisconsin's Output Is 115,000 Barrels for This Year

There'll be plenty of choice cranberries for your Thanksgiving dinner this year, according to the crop reporting service of the Wisconsin and United States Departments of Agriculture. A record crop was produced in Wisconsin this year and the nation's output is above average. No cranberries are raised in Outagamie county.

According to the latest estimates, Wisconsin's cranberry crop this year is about 115,000 barrels. Growers in the state report that there was a late season which was favorable to harvesting, and there was little damage done to the berries due to freezing. With the favorable weather conditions, the berries grew to a large size which increased production beyond early expectations. In order to appreciate how exceptionally large the state's cranberry production is this year, the crop reporting service points out that last year only 62,000 barrels were harvested and the average production for the five years

According to estimates of the United States crop reporting board, the nation's cranberry production this year is about 776,100 barrels. Last year the board reported the nation's production at 504,300 barrels, and the 5-year average is 593,023 barrels. Estimates of cranberry production are made by only five states in the nation. Massachusetts is the largest producer. Other states are as follows: New Jersey, Wisconsin, Washington, and Oregon.

The world's largest fruit juice plant is to be built in Honolulu at a cost of $1,250,000. It will specialize in the canning of pineapple juice.

ANTI-LAFOLLETTE FUSION

The fusion of a number of political elements in Wisconsin for the support of the LaFollettes at the last election was regarded as successful.

Our Madison correspondent pictures the fusion of the remaining political elements in Wisconsin that are opposed to the LaFollettes as of doubtful result. Probably his is an actual reflection of public opinion, a belief that the elements opposed to the LaFollettes are somehow incapable of being fused or that the LaFollette political machine, which is a dandy, is too strong and too well set up to be overcome.

The fusion against the LaFollettes is just as natural as the fusion in their favor. And each fusion should be regarded as intelligence in politics.

For the LaFollettes are the issue in Wisconsin. There is no doubt about that. There are bound to be minor issues but the main one is the LaFollettes, their program, their methods, their bid for leadership in liberal ranks.

There is one respect in which the fusion for the LaFollettes started under happy circumstances for their leadership in Wisconsin was practically unquestioned, and the matter of leadership is an extremely vital point. Can the fusion against the LaFollettes bring out a state ticket of men splendidly equipped for public service, of sterling honesty and sincerity, impressing the people with strong confidence in their favor?

That is now the most important, indeed, the critical thing on the table for those opposed to the LaFollettes. They will find tens of thousands in Wisconsin that would vote for anyone in preference to the LaFollettes. But they will also find that personality is an acute factor in all our political life, and very properly so, and that the talent and character of the men presented may make or spoil the effort to fuse the majority of the people in the state, who have almost constantly voted against the LaFollettes, into one cohesive force.

GHOSTS IN EVERY CORNER

Perhaps it was a year ago the Post-Crescent ran an article on "Gone With the Wind," an alluring book written about that greatest of American tragedies, The Lost Cause of the Confederacy.

The newspaper was taken severely to task and burned a bit with the vitriol of strong language for trying to delude the people and soften their resistance to tyrants by upholding, if not the institution of slavery, at least the aristocracy of the South that was constructed upon the shivering forms of black men, and all this because the praised book had presented the "Old South" in all its perfumed glory.

Subject as a newspaper always is to criticism and some of which is apt and appropriate, it seemed to us that our critic was burdened a little bit by an unbalanced ration of politics, and this even in a country where politics is second nature. The only people who are likely to vision a trap for liberty in every fascinating story are supersensitive to something and we don't know just exactly what, whether the pollen of ragweed or the flashing eyes of a gypsy queen.

But the Post-Crescent's was not the only experience of this nature. Mr. Munro Leaf wrote a book about a Spanish bull named Ferdinand, a very disappointing bull, one in fact that refused to go into the arena to fight, whereupon "they had to send him back home, where he settled down again to smelling the flowers." The book was made unusually attractive by a happy combination of text and pictures and soon became the subject of discussion. Its author recently in an address stated:

saw visions of greatness for him in the arena, whereas in the arena there was no bee and therefore no greatness.

It is a fortunate thing perhaps for all of us that Mother Goose Rhymes were written long ago and have become well settled both as to word and picture although it must be recognized that they are not beyond attack. Hitler may level a gun at one while Stalin shoots another. In the Bad Wolf would it not be easy to figure out the Red propaganda from Moscow puffing and blowing until the national house was destroyed? And what finer example of democratic propaganda could be discovered than the story of Red Riding Hood as democracy about to be devoured by the same wolf but this time in grandma's clothing, and yet saved at the last moment by the sturdy people in the form of woodsmen who were near at hand?

THE PRICE OF NOISE

While it has not been proven to the satisfaction of everyone that sound is sound when there is no one around to hear it, there seems much less doubt that noise is always noise, and always disagreeable. From the number of points from which complaints are being made lately against noise it is evident that the subject has forced itself upon the attention of a large number of persons.

And no wonder. Noise reigns everywhere. Any American city of today gives up a clamor which would drown out the Tower of Babel and a steam boiler factory combined. The degree and variety of noise in a modern city has never been equalled.

To suffer from noises does not identify one as super-sensitive and inclined to hysteria. Even after an individual builds up a wall of resistance which bars noise from his conscious mind, the unconscious effort required to keep the mental doors closed takes its toll. At the end of the day, the worker has used much more energy than if he had been working amid quiet. Yet individual resistance is about the only solution that will be attained, at least in this day. Noise cannot be greatly reduced as things are now. There are so many sources that to quash all of them would require too much legislation to be enforced without stupendous expense.

Quiet must remain only a dream to the city dweller. Noise is one of the penalties of this high compression age.

AMERICA IS NO SIDE-SHOW

As against the forces of misfortune that have gathered around the unsteady head of Magda de Fontangas assistance has been offered to obtain the entry into this country of this woman now determined by our Labor Department Board of Review to have committed offenses of such "moral turpitude," to use the language of the law, that she should not be permitted in America.

The law is perfectly sound. And so is its application in this case.

America has more than its share of bad actors, erratic personalities, and queer behaviorists.

If this woman can enter this country and coin her unsavory reputation, her shot at a count over her claimed loss of the Italian dictator's friendship, to advantage the American can bet his 60-cent dollar that in every capital in Europe will be set up a Board of Strategy to plot deviltry and notoriety in order to get poverty stricken people into the limelight of publicity and then ship them to America at so much per week.

Mme. Fontangas is probably a little "tetched" in the head. But when we make or interpret our laws so as to open the door to such the nation will be showing about the mental stability of the madame, and that would be serious.

ONE MAN GOVERNMENT

When Mr. Roosevelt at Chicago startled the nation by turning from a dove into a screaming eagle it was promised us by his adulators that the Brussels conference would produce a mystical and mysterious formula productive of peace and surprising the world with the remarkable cleverness of its presidential propo-

The only result produced by that abortive conference was the greatest flop in American international relations in 150 years.

But the President is an imperator, an autocrat, insofar as our foreign relations are concerned. He can do exactly as he pleases concerning these conferences and negotiations.

The Brussels affair is perhaps nothing more than a typical example of what Mr. Roosevelt is capable of doing when he is privileged to act without restriction. It makes a fairly comparable incident to the appointment of Kluxer Black.

What a crazy thing One Man Government seeking to direct the lives and destinies of 130 million people really is.

When a man in Yugoslavia wanted to marry his wife for the third time after two separations, he was charged triple fees and warned that a fourth wedding would be dearer still.

One hundred miles of Turkey's section of the great international motor highway between London and the Bosphorus, has just been opened and connects Istanbul and Lake Burgas.

In the new rolling mills in Yugoslavia, which were equipped by the German firm of Krupp, government employees will be able to produce 180,000 tons of iron and steel a year.

Accused in his own time of nature faking because of the dramatic poses in which he portrayed birds, John James Audubon, early American naturalist, has been vindicated by the studies of more recent scientists.

APPLETON POST-CRESCENT

TOMORROW being what it is, and me being fresh out of warnings for you not to eat too much, knowing that the big eaters will do just that and the small eaters will be free from indigestion anyway, I don't know what to say. . . however, telling people not to eat too much at Thanksgiving time is the standard American gesture, just like wishing them a Merry Christmas in a month or a Happy New Year the week after. . . so I take it all back. . . Don't Eat Too Much Tomorrow. . . and that gets me right into the spirit of things. . .

THANKSGIVING SURVEY

"I am thankful that this is not election year, what with the flu and the coalition party," P. F. LaFollette.

"I am thankful that Justice Black, the recession and John Lewis waited until after the election," F. D. Roosevelt.

"I am thankful that Ed McGrady went to work for RCA," Fanny Cora Perkins.

"I am thankful I have a job with an economic royalist, now I'm safe no matter what happens," Jim Farley.

"Me too," Charlie Michelson.

"Also," Rex Tugwell.

"I am thankful I am only 69, even if I am sure in my mind that I am 68. Gosh how FDR hates guys who are 70," Jack Garner.

"We are thankful for the southern Democrats," The Republicans.

WHAT ECONOMY? WHAT BALANCING?

Jonah:

No New Dealer ever claimed that the Roosevelt jigsaw priming could go on forever. Two of Roosevelt's most bitter opponents, Lawrence Lippman, claimed a year ago that a governmental policy of economy and balancing of the budget will bring on a temporary recession in business. It's a sacrifice that must be made.

First youse guys howl about enormous expenditures, and when expenses are cut down, youse howl about a Roosevelt recession. But woves will howl no matter what he does, Roosevelt's head must come off at any price.

—LaFollette Progressive

Maybe you've got something there. Anyway, the pump-priming, heavy expenditures and growing debt have accompanied, not ended before, the recession. The capital gains tax and undivided surplus tax are among the potent factors behind the current worries.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

A SHAWL FOR THE BABY

I want to buy a pretty shawl to wrap the baby in—

A square as fleecy as a cloud, as luminous as light;

Just warm enough to comfort him when winter days begin,

And not so heavy it will weigh upon him in the night!

I want a piece of moonlit sky with stars set in the hem;

A shawl as fine as cobwebs and as warm as summer's breeze.

If angels kept a baby shop, I'd buy a shawl from them,

And wrap the baby in it while I held him on my knees!

I'd like to buy a shawl to keep him safe from war and hate,

I'd shield him against sorrow and a day of black alarms,

I'd give him a brave armor to resist the whims of fate,

And make a world as safe and kind as Mother's loving arms!

Personal Health Talks

Noted Physician and Author

OTOSCLEROSIS

Otosclerosis growth of spongy bone in and about the hammer, anvil and stirrup in the middle ear, producing progressive deafness which first develops, as a rule, after the individual has attained adult age. The condition runs in families. Based on extensive statistics the following advice has been given regarding this type of deafness:

Under all circumstances it is exceedingly dangerous to marry a blood relative, no matter whether the relative is deaf or hearing, nor whether the deafness of either or both or neither of the partners is congenital, nor whether either or both or neither have other deaf relatives besides the other partner.

That advice applies as well in respect to deaf-mutism as to otosclerosis. Either condition may be recessive, that is, hidden, not manifest in some of the children of a deaf or deaf-mute parent, but still be passed down in dominant or manifest form to the next generation.

So far I have given the prevailing scientific view of otosclerosis or progressive deafness. There is no absolute proof that it is inherited, but just a belief based on the frequent occurrence of the condition in two or more generations of the family. Now this may be perfectly sound reasoning so far as deaf-mutism is concerned. But when you apply it to otosclerosis it seems pretty frail, for it fails to account for the first thirty or forty years of normal hearing, in the history of many of these cases of otosclerosis.

It raises the question whether some nutritional deficiency may not be the essential factor, rather than an inherited defect.

In about one-third of the cases of otosclerosis, along with the slowly increasing deafness, patients complain of vertigo or dizziness and of tinnitus or head noises. There is no inflammation or infection of the ear. The best otologists hold that the less local treatment of the ears the better. Of course, this does not mean that patients may not use whatever hearing devices they prefer.

Some victims of otosclerosis have apparently experienced considerable improvement from an optimal daily ration of the apocryphal vitamin A, in cod liver oil or other fish liver oil, or in such natural foods as milk, cream, butter, egg yolks, carrots, watercress, escarole, oranges, bananas, liver, etc. I say apocryphal, because that's what I believe about vitamin A. In my opinion all of the effects attributed to the apocryphal vitamin A may in fact be ascribed to the real vitamin D (which was formerly confused with A and named vitamin A). Not that this apocryphal vitamin can do any harm, but if I had otosclerosis I wouldn't fast myself at all about it; instead I'd make sure to get about 6,000 to 10,000 units of vitamin D daily, to promote normal calcium and phosphorus metabolism. Likewise, and for a similar reason, I'd make sure to get my iodine daily—you know, a regular iodine ration. If you don't know, send a stamped envelope bearing your address, and I'll mail you instructions for taking an iodine ration.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER
Washington — Senator Connally of Texas, whose speech is as full of barbs as a porcupine, made a flank attack on the anti-lynching bill during the early sessions filibuster that exposed one of its tenderest parts—the possibility it offers for federal intervention in other fields than lynching. Southerners hate the measure. The civil war is long over but federal meddling in the south in the years afterward left such a mark that southern youngsters three generations removed still bolt at anything that might bring it on again. In the rough, the anti-lynching bills provide, in their various forms that when county officials, notably the sheriff, permit a mob to take a prisoner out of their hands for lynching purposes, the sheriff and county officials may be punished in federal courts, and the county is made liable to the relatives of the victims for damages. In addition, the failure to punish lynchings which occur even before the victim is arrested would subject the county to fines ranging upward to $10,000. Two Exceptions The anti-lynching bill written by the senators now backing it, headed by Senator Wagner of New York, contained two special exceptions. One provided that the law should not apply to gangsters. In other words, when rival gangs in Chicago, Cleveland or New York blow each other into gangster eternity, it remains, under the proposed legislation, strictly the business of the city and state to handle. Similarly it was provided in a second exception that the measure should not apply to activities of labor groups, even if death should result from a disorder in a strike. As to the first exception, Senator Dieterich of Illinois was frank enough to explain that the "gangster exception" was desired to prevent the relatives of gang victims coming back on the county for damages. Nobody was so frank about the "labor exception," but it was well understood that framers of the bill did not want to open the way for J. Edgar Hoover's "G-men" to move in on strike scenes. They did not want to make it necessary for county officials to get "hard" with labor groups for fear of stiff federal penalties. Nevertheless, said Connally, the bill backers were willing to have the type of federal intervention visited upon the south. Pressure Fight Turning on Senator Wagner, Senator Connally said: "That is the spirit of the missionary — Turn our gangsters loose, turn our racketeers loose, but for God's sake civilize those southerners." The whole anti-lynching business has become a battle of pressure groups. Negro associations, strongest in the north where the negro is considered more "emancipated," have put more pressure on members of congress than ever before to enact the legislation. But labor "pressure groups" insist on a dam in the bill to prevent flooding in upon them, and northern gang-troubled cities want another dam to keep the "feds" off their necks. And the south—one solid mass of pressure group—wants the legislation sacked and sunk in the gulf. COLLEGE LIFE GOES ON Baton Rouge, La. —(AP)— L. M. Quinn is taking in boarders at his campus trailer quarters to ease the housing problem at Louisiana State university. It all started a year ago when crowded dormitory facilities resulted in a trailer colony springing up near the university. Even co-ed took to the idea. University authorities cooperated by providing facilities for running water, gas, lights and other conveniences. Quinn, an agriculture student from Osyka, Miss., organized himself and nine other students into the "Tiger Economy Club." With their help, he turned what was a trailer into a master bedroom, a lapboard addition into a combination reception room, dining room, study, library and kitchen. HUMAN SNAKE Sydney, Australia —(AP)— George Aitken, 58, who styles himself "Fambara, the Snake charmer," says his life is poisonous enough to kill a man. "It's because I have so much venom in my body," he explained, while recovering from a leg amputation. Aitken said he had been bitten by poisonous snakes at least 200 times during his 40 years as a carnival showman. Recently physicians diagnosed the cause of a swollen leg as "slow snake-venom poison" and took off the leg to save his life. STUDENT-OPERATED BANK Detroit —(AP)— Students at the Detroit Institute of Technology are learning banking by operating their own bank, which is chartered by the Michigan banking department. Known as the Educational Credit Union of Detroit, it is believed to be the only student bank in the United States under state supervision. The credit union pays 4 per cent interest on deposits and charges students 6 per cent on loans made for educational purposes. Books as well as promissory notes are accepted as security. GET ON DOGS' NERVES Houston, Tex. —(AP)— Pat Evans, city employee, took his day off to complain to the city council about train whistles. "I figure they whistle in Houston every twelve thousand times a day," he said. "That's too much noise. Even the dogs howl, it is so nerve-racking." He asked repeal of a law passed in 1893 requiring trains to whistle four times at each grade crossing.

Lions President Predicts Bright Economic Future

We're on Verge of Period Of Prosperity, Birch Says

Kaukauna—A period of industrial prosperity paralleled by a growth of Lions clubs and activities was predicted by Frank V. Birch, Milwaukee, president of Lions International, last night at a banquet given in his honor by the Kaukauna Lions club at Rainbow Gardens. More than 500 Lions from the entire state were present.

"I am not an expert economist or a prophet," Birch said, "but during the course of my visits over the country the last four months, discussing the nation's future with sectional leaders, I have come to the conclusion that we are on the verge of a period of prosperity."

The new prosperity will not come as a result of new inventions and industries, but will come with the making over and improving of those we have now. It is in the commonplace activities of today that the foundation of tomorrow's prosperity lies. Birch named the railroads, highways, radio, agriculture, and the building trades as a few of those already well established in which revolutions are occurring. The railway systems are being completely modernized, highway construction has just begun, and television will soon change the entire radio outlook. Agriculturally, Birch pointed out, only 15 to 20 per cent of farms are now equipped electrically, and when all the so-called new electrical machinery will change all accepted methods of farming.

Draws Parallel
A close parallel between the expected development of business conditions and of Lion organizations was drawn by Birch. "As the new prosperity for which the stage is now set will come from already established industries, so will progress in Lionism come from already organized clubs," he said.

"It is far more important to extend the influence of already existing clubs than to organize more," Birch concluded.

Birch was introduced by Judge A. M. Scheller, Waupaca, who termed the gathering one of the finest demonstrations of Lionism in several years, and presented Birch as "one who has reached the pinnacle of success among Lions," and as the youngest president ever to hold office.

Three district governors were presented by Judge Scheller, all speaking briefly. Harry J. Watson, Milwaukee governor of district 27-A, praised the Kaukauna club for its efforts in arranging the affair, and characterized Birch as a Lion possessing the highest qualities. Ralph P. Kennedy, Stevens Point governor of district 27-C, brought the greetings of the clubs in his district, and E. W. Mackey, Manitowish governor of district 27-B, lauded the spirit shown by the gathering, and expressed the hope that similar meetings would be held again.

Frank Presides
The affair was presided over by Harold Frank, president of the Kaukauna Lions. Rev. M. J. Kraus, Brillion, said the invocation, and Robert M. Connell, Appleton, led the assembly singing. After the program a floor show was given and dancing enjoyed.

Prizes were given to the clubs having the largest number of members present. Brillion, with 49, Manitowish, with 44, and New London, 43, were the leaders. Other clubs represented were those of Appleton, Neenah, Menasha, Madison, Manawa, Kaukauna, Oshkosh, Two Rivers, Fond du Lac, Beaver Dam, De Pere, Birmingwood, Clintonville, Green Bay, Marshfield, Oconto, Sawyer, Waupaca, Wabeno, Soperton, Wausau, Gillett, Marinette, Milwaukee and Sturgeon Bay.

the nation's $12,000,000,000 utilities valuation.

Such a write-off would be in line with the president's recent proposal that utilities alter their valuation practices for rate-making purposes.

He had said the administration might come in closer rapprochement with private utilities, if the latter would value their property on the common law, or "prudent investment" basis rather than on original or reproduction cost.

READY FOR "COMPROMISE"
New York.—(P)—Wendell L. Willkie, president of Commonwealth and Southern corporation, said today that "as a compromise, in order to bring reconciliation between the administration and private utilities," he would be willing to adopt in the future the "prudent investment" theory of valuation of properties in rate-making. This is the rate-making basis recently proposed by the administration.

Launch Reorganization Of State Republican Clubs

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — Hard on the heels of what is an enthusiastic and apparently significant campaign for a coalition of Republicans and Democrats, Edward Samp, Madison, chairman of the Republican state voluntary committee announced here yesterday that his organization is proceeding rapidly in a campaign to reorganize Republican clubs throughout the state.

Working with a new plan which provides for charter memberships in brand new clubs, Samp revealed that he is currently concentrating his work in a group of 15 strategic counties, including Douglas, Racine, Kenosha, Milwaukee, and the counties of the sixth and eighth congressional districts, Winnebago and Fond du Lac, and Outagamie and Brown, respectively.

The first charter to such a reorganized club was issued last Sunday to a Douglas county group at Superior, he said, while organization campaigns are presently underway in Brown and Outagamie counties.

Honkamp Active
Organization work is being carried on in Outagamie county by a corps headed by Elmer R. Honkamp, Appleton, Outagamie county Republican chairman, while Norman Basten of Green Bay, Brown county Republican chief, is in charge of the work in his area. In Winnebago county Young Republican clubs, under the direction of Mrs. George Greeley of Oshkosh, secretary of the state organization, are taking the lead in organization work, he said.

Because he is too busy with state party affairs to visit all the counties of the eighth congressional district personally, Samp explained, he has asked Orville Hegner of Appleton, district Republican chairman, to call a meeting of Republicans in those counties in the near future to discuss further organization work. The date of that meeting will be announced soon, he said. Originally scheduled for Oconto during October, it was later postponed.

Samp indicated that he expects a substantial attendance at the annual convention of Wisconsin Young Republican clubs at Waukesha Saturday, December 4.

Autoist Pleads Guilty Of Reckless Driving
Francis Seif, route 2, Hortonville, pleaded guilty of reckless driving before Acting Municipal Judge Fred V. Heinemann yesterday afternoon in municipal court. Judge Heinemann fined him $15 and costs with an alternative of 10 days in the county detention camp on the charge under the county statute and $25 and costs with an alternative of 10 days in the detention camp under the state law. His driving license was revoked for one year. Self indicated he would serve out the sentence. He was arrested by county police following an accident last week.

NEW WAREHOUSE
A permit to construct a new warehouse at 431 S. Bounds street was issued today to Charles W. Wilson by the city building inspector. The structure will be of frame construction and is estimated to cost $300.

Willkie said he understood the "prudent investment" theory of valuation of properties to mean "whether an investment was prudently made."

Sentence Youths To Reformatory From 1-3 Years

Pair Pleads Guilty of Taking Cars and Accessories

A series of car thefts was cleared up this morning and a young crime ring was believed broken with the sentence to the state reformatory of Charles Deeg, 19, 721 S. Kernan avenue, and George Fuerst, 21, 1518 S. Kernan avenue, by Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court. The sentence is from one to three years.

The youths pleaded guilty and were sentenced on eight different counts which involved taking of three automobiles without the consent of the owners, stealing accessories from the cars, damaging property.

A 14-year-old boy who was arrested as an alleged member of the gang will appear in juvenile court later this week. The youths were arrested by city police Saturday and were arraigned Monday before Acting Municipal Judge Fred V. Heinemann.

The two youths this morning were sentenced on each of the eight counts but the sentences will run concurrently.

Strip Car
They were sentenced from one to three years in the state reformatory for taking a car owned by L. E. Guenther, 1318 W. Second street, the night of Nov. 19. On the second count which charged them with taking accessories amounting to $129 from the car, they were given a one to three-year sentence at the reformatory.

A sentence of from one to three years was given the pair for taking a car owned by Harvey Kobus, Kaukauna, on Nov. 12. For taking the accessories valued at $92.50 they were sentenced to not over six months at the reformatory.

Judge Ryan sentenced them to from one to three years at the reformatory for taking a car owned by James Leopold, Menasha, on Nov. 16, and to six months at the county detention camp for stealing candy worth $6 from Henry Locksmith, Appleton candy jobber, on Nov. 19.

They also were sentenced to six months at the detention camp for mutilating and defacing a car owned by Ignatius Theiss, and to six months at the detention camp for taking accessories valued at $40 from the Leopold car.

The cars were recovered after they had been abandoned and police also recovered the stolen accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Jones spent Monday at Eldorado at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Davis. They will spend Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. Art Tabak at Eldorado, the latter a niece of Mr. Jones.

A concurrent season on black bear—each hunter being allowed one animal—has been set in all of the deer hunting counties except Adams, Clark, Eau Claire, Jackson, Juneau, Marathon, Monroe, Oconto, Oneida, Shawano and Wood.

Bow and arrow hunters were given a 19-day season during October in Columbia, Manitowish, Sauk, and part of Dane counties, but the conservation department received no report of a bowman killing a deer.

There is snow in all of the north woods, Hayner said, and "tracking" conditions should be good unless warm weather occurs.

Name Committee To Investigate Pension Charges

Dunham Fails to Appear Before Winnebago County Board

(Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau)
Oshkosh—A cannon cracker slated to explode this morning at the Winnebago county board session in regard to charges of partially made by R. J. Dunham, former pension investigator, against L. W. Howman, pension administrator, appeared to fizzle when Dunham failed to appear. A large crowd of spectators listened intently to a communication from Howman stating it was impossible for him to appear before the board because of illness and because he felt the expenses involved in an investigation should not be borne by him.

He made several specific charges of mismanagement in the pension department. One charge related to alleged mistreating and underemployment of relief clients. John A. Moore, Oshkosh, suggested a committee be appointed to investigate. Moore indicated Dunham was "crawfishing" by failing to put in an appearance. Several other members indicated the charges were "trivial."

A committee was appointed by J. F. Shea, county board chairman, composed of Supervisors Moore, J. W. Meagher and W. E. Clark to check Howman's books and report back to the board.

Howman was given a chance to answer the charge and stated he would appear before the end of the session with the committee.

A frank statement was made Tuesday by E. E. Dornbrook, Menasha supervisor and member of the sheriff and coroner's committee that if a proposal to name a captain of Winnebago County motorcycle officers to check on patrol of the county did not work, some changes may be made in the present personnel.

Supervisor Dornbrook made the statement in discussion of a report from the committee opposing the addition of two additional officers and a resolution recommending a new setup to make the senior ranking officer a captain, under supervision of the sheriff.

The report was accepted, and the resolution appropriating funds to pay the senior officer $10 per month extra for this work was passed.

Warning Signal
The sheriff and coroner's committee had a resolution passed requesting a flasher signal of the wig-wag type at the Soo Line crossing in 125 near the Butte de Mort roll course. Supervisor Henry Schultz stated three persons had been killed there recently.

A resolution presented by the committee on insane, C. O. Allen, J. B. Derby and Arthur Rehbein, appropriating $25,464.84 was passed. Another by C. O. Allen, asking that $10,000 from the earnings of the county asylum be granted the use of the trustees for improvements was passed after some argument. Allen pointed out the trustees had the right to use the money but wished the county board informed.

The question of where the 71 acres of land to be used for a site for a proposed county garage was settled Tuesday afternoon by Supervisor John Moore, Oshkosh, at least for the time, when he told the board to wait until it was decided to build the garage before quibbling about the location.

Defer Action
This was embodied into a motion to defer action until a resolution is passed authorizing erection of a garage. This year $25,000 again has been put in the budget for this purpose, but to date, nothing further has been done. Last year the proposal to build was defeated.

A proposal was read stating that 71 acres was available in the city of Oshkosh, owned by the Lutz Stone company, who proposed to give the land to the county in lieu of unpaid taxes. As the land is valued at $3,500 and the tax bill is $10,000, it was suggested the balance be applied against stone for the highway.

About this time it was found the county already had some land in the tenth ward of Oshkosh for this purpose, not to mention other land considered on the Bowen street road, which had been suggested for a radio station for the county.

Ask Report
A report from J. J. Davis, of the Paine Lumber company was asked in a resolution by H. N. Howe. Last year the county board gave the company a chance to bid on their delinquent tax certificates at half their face value, at a saving of about $50,000.

The request for a report was embodied in a resolution directing the county clerk to procure all tax deeds on lands owned by the county.

A report from the county superintendent of schools was accepted after some argument as to whether she was paid $1,800 per year or $2,160. The latter figure was finally decided upon.

A resolution was passed authorizing the Wisconsin Tax commission to audit the county books and $12,000 was appropriated. A request by Supervisor Earl Hult, town of Neenah, that the bills of the sheriff be included, was ruled not to come under the provision.

Social Security Board
A resolution was adopted setting up a Social Security board composed of J. F. Shea, chairman; R.

Treasury Seeks Bids On Old Post Office

The treasury today prepared advertisements inviting new bids on the old post office building on Onondia street. Bids will be opened Jan. 10. The department had previously rejected the only bid for the building and site, that of the Home Mutual Insurance company of Appleton, which offered $15,000. The treasury considers this an inadequate price.

Annual Seal Sale To Start Friday In City, County

Local Unit of W. A. T. A. Will Open Yearly Drive for Funds

Thanksgiving Day marks the official opening of the national Christmas seal sale in every state of the union. The Appleton division of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association will distribute its seals through the mail Friday and Saturday, Mrs. R. J. White, local chairman, reported today.

The work of the state association is financed by the sale of these seals and the effectiveness of its battle against the disease is directly controlled by the response of the public to the sale, Mrs. White said.

The organized fight against tuberculosis was started 30 years ago. During that period the death rate from the disease has been reduced over 60 per cent. The scientific work of state and national laboratories as well as public education on the disease are responsible for this progress, she stated.

There is still considerable work to be done in Outagamie county. Last year 29 deaths from tuberculosis were recorded for this county. There are approximately 240 active cases of the disease in the county against which there is no quarantine protection, Mrs. White said.

Discovering infection, catching early cases before it is too late, isolating them, educating citizens concerning the nature and treatment of tuberculosis and its prevention and helping its victims are problems of major concern, she added.

The state anti-tuberculosis association devotes its entire resources to this work. Through its Appleton division work was carried on in this city during the last year on all these problems. Through the sale of seals, it was possible to have the services of a medical social worker here in the city for 10 weeks.

A traveling health exhibit was brought to Appleton during the year and a talking picture on tuberculosis was shown at 12 school assemblies. A total of 2,000 educational pamphlets were distributed among mill workers. Several thousand more went into homes in this city.

X-ray and other medical service is being furnished many people who would not otherwise have it.

The committee for the Appleton division of the association is made up of the following persons: Mrs. R. J. White, chairman, Mrs. L. S. Wolfe, secretary, A. Stoebe, treasurer, Karl Haugen, G. E. Buchanan, John Trautman, Mrs. August Arens, Joseph Plank, Mrs. Thomas Orblison, Mrs. Ray Challoner, Mrs. W. A. Witte, Mrs. Milton Townner, Mrs. Gordon Derber, Mrs. H. H. ## Thanksgiving Programs Presented By Pupils in All Neenah Schools

Neenah—Thanksgiving programs were presented in all Neenah schools today, according to Superintendent C. E. Hedges.

At the high school a short assembly program was staged this morning in which Principal John Holzman announced the $150 scholarship award being offered by the Neenah-Menasha Service Circle of King's Daughters. A reading on Thanksgiving was presented and the high school band played several appropriate selections, and the students sang.

The primary grades of the Lincoln school are having parties with short informal programs consisting of songs, stories, games and dramatization of early life in the country. The fifth grade of Lincoln school is dramatizing the story of the Pilgrims. The pupils have planned the program.

The second grade has an excursion to a creamery in connection with the study of the farm and the pupils are making butter, whipped cream and apple sauce which they are serving at their party. The fifth grade is putting on a pageant of Pilgrim life, and the fourth grade is holding a story telling session and serving apples and candy.

The children of the third and fourth grades held a Thanksgiving feast to culminate their Indian project, and were hosts to the fourth grade students who took the part of Pilgrims to complete the theme. The children wore costumes they made themselves. The long tables were decorated with pumpkins, squashes and gourds and had been set by the children. The Indian type food consisted of corn bread, grapes and nuts.

Students in several of the rooms at Roosevelt school, besides giving programs and parties, gathered canned goods and helped to distribute them to needy families under the supervision of Miss L. Evelyn Schell, school nurse.

Pupils at Washington school are participating in programs consisting of songs, stories, games and dramatizations. The kindergarten students, as a part of the social work, made a Thanksgiving dish consisting of butter and apple sauce. Each child contributed to fill a basket of food which was distributed to a needy home.

NOW SHOWING AT ELITE THEATER

Marxmania at its gayest is seen in "A Day at the Races," now showing at the Elite Theatre as the newest laugh extravaganza of that trio of uninhibited and inimitable laughmakers, the Three Marx Brothers.

While the picture is titled "A Day at the Races," it might just as aptly have been called "A Day in a Sanitarium," for the plot switches between the two locales at breakneck pace, and it would be difficult to say which is funnier—the antics of the Marxes in the sanitarium or their uproarious conduct at the race track.

Mrs. Harry Leith Heads Woman's Association at Congregational Church

MRS. HARRY LEITH, was elected president of Woman's Association of First Congregational church at a meeting Tuesday afternoon at the church, succeeding Mrs. E. E. Dunn, who was president for the last year.

Other officers include Mrs. E. K. Nielsen, first vice president, Mrs. Vilas Gehlin, second vice president; Mrs. George Ashman, who was re-elected secretary; Mrs. Ben Wadsworth, treasurer; and Mrs. Clyde Chapelle, chairman of programs, assisted by Mrs. T. E. Orblison and Mrs. W. R. Challoner.

The association voted that the outgoing president become an ex officio member of the executive board.

Mrs. R. A. Holvenstot, Oconomowoc, president of the World Fellowship Council of Wisconsin Women, was the speaker at the meeting yesterday, reviewing the aims of the council on the tenth anniversary of its organization which is being observed this year. She pointed out that the council came about as the result of a merger of the Women's Home Missionary Union and Women's Board of Missions of the Interior, the Congregational church now having one woman's organization doing the outside work of the church.

World fellowship education, service, inspiration and financial work are the four phases of the work of the council, said Mrs. Holvenstot, explaining that adult education is coming to the front in the Congregational program as in other groups.

The speaker explained that 52 per cent of the appropriation money donated to the church is kept in Wisconsin and divided among the many projects of the Congregational church throughout the state.

Mrs. Holvenstot stressed the need for the Woman's Association assuming responsibility for deepening the spiritual life of the women of the church, and helping them to build a philosophy for their homes, expressing the idea that this is a new type of religious study that women ought to be doing in the realm of personality development.

Plans were announced for the sale and supper which the association will sponsor Nov. 30 with Mrs. E. E. Dunn as general chairman. Mrs. Werner Witte will be in charge of decorations. Mrs. Lacey Horton of the diningroom, Mrs. Roy Marston of tickets and Mrs. Jean Bomier of the kitchen. Wilson was appointed chairman of the service quota for an academy in Florida.

Kaukauna Cagers Drill for Opener Against St. Mary's

Little Reduces Squad to 25 Candidates; Will Make Further Reduction

Kaukauna — With the opening game of the season scheduled with St. Mary's of Menasha Dec. 6, Coach Paul E. Little's basketball hopefuls continued to drill on fundamentals yesterday. A short scrimmage was held at the end of the practice.

No starting lineup has yet been selected by Little, and the fights for all positions are still wide open. Cliff Vanervenhooven, the only returning veteran, appears to be certain of one of the starting forward posts, but all other stations are in doubt, many players being used in the scrimmage so far.

The squad of about 50 who reported to Little last week has been cut to about 25, and another cut will shortly be made to give him an A squad of about a dozen, upon whom Kaukauna's chances of attaining a high ranking in this year's conference race will rest.

Those who appear to have the best chance of making the final cut are Leland Lambie, Cliff Vanervenhooven, Bill Alger, Carl Grogan, Andy Melner, John Grogan, Neil McCarthy, Carl Pendergast, Henry Skenadore and Bill Peterson. Alger and Grogan are the only freshmen this year with possibilities of making the first squad.

Install Mitchler as Commander of V. F. W.

Kaukauna — Frank Mitchler was installed as commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Electric City Post No. 3319, at the meeting last night in the Legion hall. The meeting was presided over by a covered dish supper at 6:30. After the installing of officers a social meeting was held.

Other officers who were installed are Clifford Brandt, senior vice commander; Arthur Kromer, junior vice commander; Matt Verfurth, quartermaster; Edward Staidl, adjutant, and Charles Clune, advocate.

Gustman Cagers Take Trimming at Green Bay

Kaukauna — The Gustman Chevrolets, one of the entries in the city basketball league, got off to a bad start in the practice schedule when they journeyed to Green Bay and dropped a 38-12 decision to the Reformatory team there. The Green Bay team went out in front in the first few minutes and scored almost at will.

The Kaukauna office of the Appleton Post-Crescent is located in the Jules Mertes barbershop on Wisconsin avenue. William Dowling is the correspondent in charge and the telephone number is 107. Subscribers may call this number until 6:30 in the evening if their papers were not delivered.

75 Attend Banquet In Honor of St. Mary School Grid Squad

Kaukauna — Seventy-five persons attended a banquet and program at St. Mary's church last night in honor of the St. Mary's football team. The entire squad of 21 players was present.

The chief speakers were the Rev. A. Roder and the Rev. John Haen of St. Mary's, with the team's co-captains, Bob Danner and Willis Ranquette, also talking.

Jack Licht, coach, received a gift from the members of the squad. John Ryan made the presentation speech.

Catholic Youth Groups Organize

200 Young People Attend Gathering at St. Mary's Church

Kaukauna — Final plans for the organization of Catholic Youth Council here were made Monday night as 200 young people of St. Mary's parish met in the church auditorium.

Two groups were formed within the council, the high school or junior group, and the out-of-school or senior group. Wilfred Licht was named president of the junior group. Lorraine Tryuman, vice president; Dolores Landreman, secretary, and Charlotte Mayer, secretary. For the senior group Kenneth Vilis was elected president; Ann Landreman, vice president; Evangeline Nettken, secretary, and Sylvester Hanby, treasurer.

It was decided that the senior group would meet at 7:30 every third Monday. The senior group, now counting about 50 members, also is starting a membership drive. Each member was asked to bring another candidate to the next meeting, which will be held Dec. 13.

The first project of the council will be the distribution of toys to children of Kaukauna at Christmas time.

The Rev. John Haen addressed the group, explaining the purpose of the Catholic youth movement. A covered dish dinner was held at 6:30 to open the meeting.

Members of the council will assemble at 6:15 in the church basement Sunday, to receive communion in a body.

2-WAY RELIEF FOR THE MISERY OF COLDS

RELIEVES THROAT PAIN—RAWNESS

ENTERS BODY THROUGH STOMACH AND INTESTINES TO EASE PAIN

The speed with which Bayer tablets act in relieving the distressing symptoms of colds and accompanying sore throat is utterly amazing... and the treatment is simple and pleasant. This is all you do. Crush and dissolve three genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets in one-third glass of water. Then gargle with this mixture twice, holding your head well back.

This medicinal gargle will act almost like a local anesthetic on the sore, irritated membrane of your throat. Pain ceases promptly; rawness is relieved.

You will say it is remarkable. And the few cents it costs equals a big saving over expensive "throat gargles" and strong medicines. And when you buy, see that you get genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

The Characters
Nina, a nice girl with flaxen hair.
Honey, Nina's gay, plump, youthful mother, has brought home a new husband.
Richard, Nina's stepfather, charming, poised, dark-haired, well-tailored and Honey's junior by 10 years.
David, a young auto salesman, met Nina at a party he crashed. He has copper hair and an engaging manner.
Cordelia, Nina's closest friend.
Chapter Seven
Cordelia said, "We'll talk about my party at lunch, because that culture, Bridget, will be hovering around for bits of gossip. But afterwards, you've got to give me the real low-down on Honey and her new sizzle."
So over their melon and their stuffed eggs and broccoli, they had discussed the "Evening on Montmartre." Nina had told her more about the funny young man with the copper-colored hair, and what he had turned out to be; but later, upstairs in the library, they had gone straight for the business of the day.
"Now then, Nina, tell me all about this Richard Challenor, the Man of the Hour."
"I don't know a thing, Cordelia. Not a thing, except that he's not more than 35 or 6, and frightfully good-looking."
She described him, and was surprised to notice how well she remembered every little thing about him; the way his sleek dark hair grew in points over his temples; the nice way he used his hands--lighting a cigarette--pouring drinks; the way he carried himself with an almost military stiffness...turning from the waist....
Her friend made a significant whistling sound through her lips. "I should say you knew quite a lot about him," she remarked.
"Oh, but not the important things. When they began to compare the notices for the papers, I thought: 'Here's where little Nina gets some data.... but you saw all there was. Born in England. Member of several good clubs in different cities. Served with the Seaforth Highlanders during the war. There he is in a nutshell.'"
"And a hard nut to crack, if you ask me.... Business?"
"None that I know of."
"Um-m. What is known as 'private'?"

Change in Order of Play Would Have Made Game

Mr. Culbertson is conducting through this column a national examination of bridge players. Rate yourself by subtracting from 100 the points for each wrong answer.

BY ELY CULBERTSON
Yesterday's question was: Question 49: The bidding goes:

South West North East
1 heart Pass 1 spade Pass

Which is now the stronger bid for South to make:

(1) Three spades: (g) four spades? Answer: Four spades: (g) is the stronger bid by South. This situation must not be confused with the similar one wherein, if the OPENING BIDDER bids one spade, the RESPONDER can show a good hand and force to game, with a double raise, whereas a triple raise (jump to game) would be a mere shut-out. (One point demerit for incorrect answer.)

TODAY'S QUESTION
Question 50: You are East and vulnerable. North-South are not vulnerable. The bidding was:

East South West North
1 spade Pass 1 no trump 3 diam. Pass

Dummy and your hand are:

NORTH (dummy).
♥ 10 7
♦ A K J 10 8 6 4
♣ Q J 5

EAST
♠ A Q J 8
♥ K J 4
♦ 7 3 2
♣ A 9 7

West, your partner, opens the six of clubs. Dummy plays the jack and you win with the ace.

What card do you return?

TODAY'S HAND
North, dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ A Q 10 6
♥ K 5 2
♦ A Q
♣ 9 7 6 2

WEST
♠ 8 5 4 3
♥ 10 8 6
♦ 7 6 2
♣ Q 4 3

EAST
♠ K J 2
♥ Q J 10 7
♦ J 8 5 3
♣ A 8

♥ A 5 4
♦ K 10 9 4
♣ K J 10 6

The bidding:

North East South West
1 spade Pass 2 no trump Pass
3 no trump Pass Pass Pass

West, with his miserable hand, could see no better opening lead than the heart nine. Dummy's king was played and a club finesse taken. West's queen winning. West returned a heart. Declarer won, and knocked out the club ace. East cashed his two good hearts, declarer discarding a diamond, and then merely ended with a diamond. Declarer cashed dummy's ace of high diamonds, his own two high clubs, and the diamond king, then had to try the spade finesse for his ninth trick. It lost and he was down one.

One slight change in the order of play would have made the contract for declarer. On winning the second heart lead declarer should have taken out the ace and queen of diamonds before clearing the club suit. East, on lead with the club ace, could cash his two hearts, but then would have to lead a diamond or a spade. (Declarer should discard a spade, not a diamond, on the fourth heart.) Obviously a spade lead would be directly up to the tennet. On a diamond lead declarer, if he correctly figured that the percentage was against the jack dropping, could have finessed with the ten spot and taken the rest of the tricks.

TOMORROW'S HAND

Both sides vulnerable.

1 teaspoon orange juice
nutmeg

Mix pumpkin with sugar, spices, vanilla, salt, yolks and milk. Beat well and add rest of the ingredients. Pour into a buttered baking dish. Bake for one hour in a pan of hot water in a slow oven. Spread with meringue and bake 20 minutes. Cool and serve.

Cakes won't stick to pans if pans are lined with waxed paper. Grease pans first, then spread paper on bottom of pan and grease the paper. Let children cut these papers for you. It will be a rainy-day amusement for them.

Thanksgiving Mode

A smart frock to wear to the Thanksgiving service and dinner is made of black wool, cut on ultra-simple lines and finished with one sparkling touch—a jeweled embroidered fern leaf. Lucile Paray designs it. Black velvet makes the off-the-face hat.

The Paris Exposition

I was glad to reach Paris before the closing of its exposition. Millions of people from many lands have come to see it. Some of the buildings were not ready on time for the opening, but the fair seems to have met with success. Visitors during the autumn have found it complete, and in good order.

Russian building at Paris exposition.

In some ways, the Paris Exposition reminds me of Chicago's Century of Progress. The buildings are largely "modernistic," and many colors are to be seen, though not such bright ones as at Chicago.

Some visitors smile when they find that the buildings of Russia and Germany are on opposite sides of the same roadway, and face each other squarely. The rulers of these countries have not been friendly for some years.

Escape to Make-Believe
World is Relief to Child

Making-believe is an old favorite with children. They play it in order to find relief from the grown-up world of actuality which is beyond their understanding and at times gets past all bearing. An escape to the world of make-believe offers them relief and rest and joy. That relief should be provided for them at home and in the school.

The house that has an attic or a playroom is a paradise for children. They can keep their collection of odds and ends that are to be used in making-believe in chests, boxes or on hooks and shelves quite out of the way of the practical adults whose fanatic desire for clearing away old things often leaves children desolate. Old things ought always to be offered to children before they go to the waste-man. What seems just a rag to you may seem to be a coronation robe to the child in his make-believe world. Let him have his symbols because he needs them.

In many ways this make-believe game can be used to develop the talents, or the weaknesses of children. Putting on a play is a fine bit of training and experience for older children. Taking part in a play is always a highly profitable experience for the young actor. Parts should be distributed with an eye to their effect on the actors. What a child makes believe he is for that time.

If he keeps on assuming a character it is very likely to cling to him. Hence the necessity for care in such assignments.

Dramatic expression is an essential value in a child's education. This does not mean that we are trying to teach all children to be actors. We would not do that if we wanted to, and we do not want to. What we want to do is to allow the child to place himself in a new attitude toward life and experiences, to allow him to express the emotions and feelings and to exhibit the behavior that he feels is pressing for expression. Usually these expressions are allied with beauty. Occasionally they are unlovely. Let them out in either case and the child will be the better for it.

We have trouble sometimes with children who make believe things are true, actual, in everyday practice when they are far from that.

Telling them not to tell lies does not seem to help in the least. Allowing them to write and act a play that uses these dreams, hopes and longings seems to help a great deal. The pressure has been lifted in giving expression to the dramatic instinct that was urging the child to action. The most truthful of children need to make believe now and then, and this is one good way of allowing them the release while preserving their truthfulness.

When a little child comes to you with a story freshly minted from his imagination, instead of warning him against being a liar ask him, "Is that suppose story? It's fine. Suppose another one. Then I'll try to do one. It's great fun." When an older one seems to find deviation from strict facts useful, or when he comes facts with imagination, or when he does some seemingly outrageous thing for apparently no good reason, try placing him in a

Tears Age Woman Speedily

BY ELSIE PIERCE

One of the outstanding makeup artists of Hollywood warns women: "If you want to be beautiful and look younger than you really are, you cannot be a cry baby."

Nothing—in this artist's estimation—ages a woman so quickly as tears brought about by sorrow or by anger.

"Tears of joy are different. They give another and less harmful set of muscles a good workout."

One of the chief reasons that Gail Patrick, Ida Lupino, Joan Crawford, Claudette Colbert, Carole Lombard and other screen beauties not only remain beautiful, but seem to become increasingly lovely is their control of emotions of sorrow and anger. In other words, they cultivate composure.

He goes on to explain that, "They have little reason to exercise these emotions, because their lives are so well ordered; however they tread lightly when they do, because they know what beauty means to them and how quickly it can be destroyed by going off the deep end" emotionally.

Beauty's Enemies
There is much to be learned from this lesson. Worry and weeping are beauty's enemies. They drag the spirit down. They cause facial muscles to droop and lines to form. True, there may be reason for these control helps one to balance values and take sorrow as philosophically as is humanly possible.

Rest, relaxation and repose are important to physical and mental well-being. The screen stars invariably run away for a vacation after a period of hard work and emotional strain, whether actual or "staged." The average woman does not often have the opportunity to take a holiday. That is why she should try to take her everyday work and worries in stride and make a conscious effort to relax.

Remember that cosmetics can be merely a veneer or the ultimate finish and polish to a perfect picture. It all depends upon the foundation, beneath. And beneath it all peace of mind does, very definitely, matter.

My bulletin "Rules for Relaxation" may be had for a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope. (Copyright, 1937)

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

PROFESSIONALLY EMPLOYED

Dear Mrs. Post: Off and on over a period of several years I have been employed as nurse by a family which is soon to have a wedding. I am on duty in their house now taking care of a sick grandmother. I did not know this family before my professional contact.

And while I am always treated with the utmost consideration, I do not feel very near to any of them. I merely give to this background before asking you what I should do about accepting an invitation I have just received, at my home address, to the wedding and reception. Shall I consider it a bona-fide invitation and accept it as a gesture of courtesy only, which I am not expected to send seriously? And what about sending a wedding present? And since I am working in the house now, do you think it better for me to decline, or accept, verbally rather than by written note?

Answer: There is no such thing as an invitation which isn't an invitation! It is entirely proper to accept the invitation if you can. Or on the other hand, to regret it if you prefer, or if you must. By this I mean that if your patient would suffer during your absence.

play, try giving the dramatic instinct a chance. It is a safeguard, an outlet, a way to truth and beauty. It leads out of the land of make-believe into the actual day.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to parents and school teachers on this care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood—Strange it may be, but the person most vitally concerned in a movie love scene is neither of the principals but the director.

Your stars, unless they're very new at the business, may be quite blasé about exchanging osculations and embraces for the camera, but your director never is. His realization of the importance of sincere and beautiful love scenes to his picture makes him, for the time, a Lotherio without portfolio. He knows so thoroughly the mood he wants that you are sure, watching his sideline excitement, he could give a better performance than his stars.

Some Find Ridicule Useful
Sometimes he does, too—better and funnier. That is when he undertakes to "show them how." Archie Mayo frequently acts out scenes to demonstrate the effects he wants. Archie weighs around 200, unless he's reduced some more. He did not take Gary Cooper's place with Sigrid Gurie in the "Marco Polo" rehearsals, but he would re-act the love lines to himself, and the replies, emphasizing the desired inflection. Archie thinks inflection is the big thing in movie love passages.

Michael Curtiz, excitable Hungarian, does not "act out" movie romances. He comments, criticizes, suggests. "That kiss—she would not melt butter. Don't hold her like she was a hot potato. Crush her. Maybe you break a rib. That is all right if we get a good scene!"

DeMille, hawk-eyed on every scene, is the same when his players must make love. Sometimes he uses ridicule along with blandishments to spur them into the "mood." Another showman-director, Von Sternberg, has found ridicule useful.

Bushy Barkley belongs to the act-out school. He acts it out in rehearsals, then during the "take" he stands behind the camera, going through the motions while his players perform before the lens.

Irving Cummings, once an actor himself, uses the soft voice method, and he has been known to watch his scene, stop by stop. You can almost hear him as he mentally reads the lines. Mervyn LeRoy's that way too.

Ernst Lubitsch lets out the actor in him occasionally. It's funniest when he emotes through a love dialogue to demonstrate an inflection, a matter of timing, a movement of the head or arm he wants.

Gigantic William Dieterle—in achievement as in stature, what with "Zola" behind him—gets excited. He has been known to walk up and down the set, between scenes, waving arms over his head and shouting, "No, no, you luff her. You understand? Make it real. Make it honest. Give me more, more, closer, more enthusiasm, more luff!" And he gets it—more "closer" and more "luff."

PLAY IN CHARITY GRID GAME HERE TOMORROW

When the Appleton Reds football team meets the Kaukauna Electric City Brewers at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at George A. Whiting field of Lawrence college, three of the Reds who probably will perform are above. They are Roy Verhoven, guard, E. Palmbach, center, and end, and John Casper, guard, and all have figured in Red victories during the current season.

Tomorrow's game will be a benefit for the Appleton Lions club blind fund and tickets to the game have been sold during the last week by members of the club.

The Kaukauna team will be composed of the best talent in the Electric City together with about six members of the Little Chute Flyers. The Kaukauna team has moved to the Reds earlier in the season but the Chuters gave the Appleton team a neat trimming and the combined strength of the two cities is expected to present a formidable front.

The Appleton squad has been working regularly at Jones park

BY GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK — A Rose Bowl invitation for Fordham would provide Jimmy Crowley with about the greatest personal triumph ever accorded a young football coach.

"Steeple Jim" was in the Rose Bowl once before, in 1925, when he and his fellow "Four Horsemen" of Notre Dame ran a Stanford team regged, 27 to 14.

In the event California looks with favor upon Fordham's claims, Jim would become the second Bowl player in history to come back with his own gang. Wallace Wade, who played for Brown in the 1916 Rose Bowl game and subsequently took three Alabama teams there, was the other.

Crowley has good reason to remember that previous visit. He was in the hospital for a couple weeks afterward, nursing a turbulent stomach back to health. He was a nervous young man in those glamorous days and high-strung, despite his drowsy nickname, and his inside finally came unstuck in the Rose Bowl Excitement.

Calm on Bench

He's over that now, apparently. Those who have perched beside him on the bench while his powerful Rams were engaged in a tight game say he's a calm customer, inclined to leave his sharpest orders and his criticism with a quiet humor.

A prominent former classmate of his at Notre Dame was talking the other day:

"Even if Jimmy doesn't reach the Rose Bowl this time, they can't hold him off for long. He'll be the 'grand old man' of football one of these days. He's the only one of the young coaches with that touch of genius, or whatever you want to call it, that 'Rock' had."

He has Rock's sense of humor and a way of making his boys love him and play their pants off for him. But, also like the 'Rock', he has a stinger on his tongue when he needs to use it. At Michigan State and now at Fordham, no player has ever wondered for long who was boss.

The High School No. 2 team whipped the Wilson team in two games and went into first place in the league standing. Harvey Gysi paced a 225 game and 520 series to pace the winners and Guy Barlow led the Wilson team with a 525 series.

Two games were won by the High School No. 1 team over the Neenah quintet. William Blum shot a 210 game and 537 series and paced the winners while D. Danielson rolled a 516 total and led Neenah.

William Pickett shot a 206 game and 557 series to lead the Roosevelt keglers to a 2-game win over the Vocational squad. Cavert's 574 total was tops for the Vocationals.

can get better seats than they at the last moment.

He also recalled that years ago writers had to work under rather difficult conditions and often in bad weather but that now all Big Ten schools have steam-heated, enclosed press boxes and conditions are almost perfect.

Kuechle praised Lawrence college for its athletic program pointing out that football as played in the smaller colleges still is the student's game and a sport as compared with some of the bigger universities in the country where griders are paid under various guises or openly. He commended both Dr. Thomas N. Barrows and Dr. Henry M. Wriston for their policy regarding athletics.

The closing minutes of his talk were given over to questions and there were discussions of the improved situation at Wisconsin, whether Chicago would quit the Big Ten, the best team for the Rose Bowl game which Kuechle said was Pittsburgh, and the usual discussion of the pro-college team. It was Kuechle's opinion that the pros were the better.

WOLVES NAME CAPTAIN

Ann Arbor, Mich. — Fred C. Janke, 20-year-old, junior from Jackson, Mich., was elected captain of the University of Michigan 1938 football squad today. Twenty-six lettermen of this year's squad elected Janke, 50-pound tackle, to succeed Joseph M. Rinaldi, of Elkhart, Ind., retiring captain.

Packers Retain Scoring Lead in Pro Grid Circuit

THERE has been more scoring in the National Football league this season in 104 games than there was in 108 games all last season, according to team statistics released today. The 79 points scored in the Sunday game at Detroit, 24-7, Pittsburgh, The Giants still monopolize defensive honors, having held opponents to 1471 yards and 47 points.

Washington jumped from third to a tie for first with Green Bay in forward passing. It is interesting to note that these two teams which have battled all season for the passing supremacy have each thrown exactly the same number of passes and completed the same number of passes. Each has completed 81 out of 189 passes for an average of 42.8 per cent.

Big Ten Coaches Fairly Secure in 1937 Positions

Michigan Mentor Is Only One Feeling Autumn 'Heat'

BY WILLIAM WEEKES

CHICAGO — (4) — The moving man is not likely to do very much business right away with this neighborhood's major college football coaches.

In the Big Ten conference all is serene among the men who get the credit and take the raps for what the gridiron warriors accomplish, or fail to do, with the exception of Harry Kipke at Michigan who has been feeling that autumn "heat" again this year.

Kipke, who had a year of suffering for each of his four great championship seasons, probably stands as good a chance of keeping his job as of losing it, however, since his Wolverines have improved enough to break even in eight games. Last year they dropped seven out of eight.

Kipke's connection at Michigan is on a year-to-year basis, and he will not know until next spring whether he will be retained. It has been hinted that anti-Kipke forces were behind the recent uproar at Ann Arbor which caused the board in control of athletics to start an investigation into charges that several members of the freshman squad were hired hands. Alumni groups, however, have rallied to Kipke's support.

The records of Bernie Bierman, developer of Minnesota's championship teams, a year-to-year man, and Francis Schmidt, who has just finished the first season of his second three-year "gentlemen's agreement" at Ohio State, offer the "Wolves" no encouragement. Bo McMillin is making Indiana glad he is signed to a long-term contract. Lynn Waldorf enjoys a similar position at Northwestern.

Illinois hasn't piled up victories, but Bob Zuppke has kept every one happy by squeezing upsets out of his mediocre material, and Clark Shaughnessy's Chicago bosses are not much concerned over defeats. Iowa did not expect too much of Earl F. "Big Boy" Ladd in his first year and will give him at least one more year in which to get going.

Noble Kizer, forced by illness to turn Purdue's football affairs over to Mal Elward this year, will find his job waiting whenever he is able to return.

Notre Dame is more than satisfied with Elmer Layden. Charley Bachman has kept Michigan State rolling along at the swift pace set by his predecessor, Jimmy Crowley. Gus Dorais is as solid as Gibraltar at the University of Detroit. Marquette, without the talent which made it a national title contender in 1936, had a losing season, but Paddy Driscoll who succeeded Frank Murray this year, has not had to do any explaining.

Chicago Bears Plan Annual Homecoming

Chicago — The Chicago Bears of the National professional football league are going collegiate. They're going to hold their first annual homecoming when they meet the Cleveland Rams Sunday at Wrigley field.

George Halas, president and coach of the club, has invited as many "Bear alumni" as he could locate, to be his guests at the game and has banquet which will follow.

Among those expected to attend the "alumni pappy" celebration are Dr. John Hardt, Hank Anderson, Ed Hertz, Reddy Driscoll, Laurie Walcott, Link Lyman, Burt Ingwersen, Hugh Blacklock, George Traflet, Duke Hanny, Joe and Dutch Sternaman and Milt Romney.

Iola Looks Strong

Coach Wes Rodel wound up his thirteenth season at Iola in last position but things are going to be different this year. Bud Taylor and Melvin Adams, forwards, Herb Faulke, center, Earl Sorenson and Gordon Mott, guards, every one of them a veteran are all back and rarin' to go, and if there's any team in the circuit that stands to give Marion a battle, it may be this same gang of Norskes from Iola. Others on the comparatively large squad are Islo Budsberg, center, Dick Gunderson and Phil Nelson, forwards, Lee Nelson and Curtiss Aasen, guards, and Russell Olson, center or guard.

From a pre-season vantage point it looks as though Marion will have its own way in the conference, with the other teams pretty well bunched up, although Iola and Weyauwega may have a little edge among the remaining five because of returning veterans. However, with the exception of the first place team, it appears pretty much a toss-up.

The Central Wisconsin conference schedule follows:

Dec. 10-Iola at Manawa, Waupaca, at Amherst, Marion at Weyauwega.

Dec. 17-Weyauwega at Manawa, Amherst at Iola.

Jan. 7-Marion at Iola, Manawa at Amherst, Weyauwega at Waupaca.

Jan. 14-Waupaca at Manawa, Iola at Weyauwega, Amherst at Marion.

Jan. 21-Waupaca at Iola, Amherst at Weyauwega, Manawa at Marion.

Jan. 28-Manawa at Iola, Amherst at Waupaca, Weyauwega at Marion.

Feb. 4-Manawa at Weyauwega, Iola at Amherst, Waupaca at Marion.

Feb. 11-Iola at Marion, Amherst at Manawa, Waupaca at Weyauwega.

Feb. 18-Manawa at Waupaca, Weyauwega at Iola, Marion at Amherst.

Feb. 25-Iola at Waupaca, Weyauwega at Amherst, Marion at Manawa.

coach at Manawa, must build his team. They are the only two regulars left from the squad that finished third a year ago. Bruce Brown, a freshman, and George Brooks, a senior who is just beginning to find himself, are battling for the other forward berths, while Mark Fitzgerald, Eddie Nolan, and Truck Sturm appear to be the leading guard candidates. Among the other candidates who show promise are Torch Garrity, Bill Sebald, Leonard Behnke, and Bob Yohr, forwards, Les Miller at center, and Toby Thomack at guard.

3 Vets at Weyauwega

Coach Ron Murray, beginning his second year at Weyauwega, has three returning veterans in Gil Hertz, forward, LeRoy Grancorblitz, center, and Orville Buchholz, guard. John Look, who also saw considerable action last season at forward, has been shifted to guard, and the Weyauwega mentor believes he has uncovered a "find" in the person of Les Regel at the other forward. Regel is a senior and never reported before, but he stretches out over six feet in height, is fast, and has a fine basket eye. Others with whom Murray is working are Bill Hannamann and Howard Radtke, guards, Pat Scoville, center, Harold Olson and Leo Redfield, forwards.

Coach Walter Bohman, starting his third season at Amherst, expected pretty much of a veteran aggregation back this year until his star forward, Howen Peterson, transferred to Stevens Point, and his kid brother, Don Peterson, along with him. Now Bohman has to build all over again. He has quite a number of experienced men, however, in Paul Howen at center, Gordon Berto and Gordon Halversen, guards, and Al Allen at forward. The other forward position at present appears to belong to Harold Helback, Gardner Harvey, and Kenneth Gordon, guards, and Sidney Berg, forward, look like the only remaining possibilities.

Four St. Norbert Youths To Oppose Chicago Team

OSHKOSH — An all-star amateur boxing card featuring fighters from Chicago and St. Norbert's college at De Pere will be presented at the Eagles clubhouse here, Thursday evening, Dec. 2. The five Chicago boys on the card will be from George "Jabber" Young's stables.

Opponents for four of them will be from De Pere. In half of the windup, Savor Canadeo, De Pere, will meet Clifton Foy, Chicago, at 145 pounds and the other part of the twin bill will be Cornelius Young, De Pere, versus Martin O'Grady, Chicago.

Canadeo's reputation is widespread throughout the valley and if he were the only good boxer on the card, it is believed fans from adjacent cities would come here to see him toss leather. He will have a worthy opponent in Foy, who can mix it up.

The other St. Norbert boys are Al Scariotto, who will meet Tommy Dunkin, Chicago, in the 120-pound class, and Al Ulrich who is booked to face Ed Dykes, Chicago, in the 170-pound division.

Ahl on Program

The fifth Chicago fighter, Eddie Conroy, will battle Hans Ahl, Oshkosh, in a rematch in the 130-pound class. They fought at Appleton last week with Ahl losing a decision to the Chicago boy. The Oshkosh fighter immediately asked for a rematch, feeling he might be able to outpoint his opponent at another time.

Al Robbins, Oshkosh, will fight a preliminary match with Ed Wallus, Green Bay, at 140 pounds, and John Perner, Oshkosh, will face Clem Wallus, Green Bay, at 160 pounds.

New York—(AP)—Pre-holiday indecision ruled the stock market today, and while prices gyrated on both the plus- and minus sides, the final tendency was to lower levels.

What rallies there were lacked steam, although offerings were absorbed without much trouble.

Decision of Chrysler Corporation to curtail operations, effective immediately, brought out considerable offerings of the company's stock. Labor troubles in a St. Louis Ford plant contributed to weakness in the motor stocks.

Moderate Gains In Wheat Nearly Erased by Selling

Price Boosts Dependent Upon European Buying on Broad Scale

Chicago—(AP)—Increased selling, largely from traders dispirited by action of securities, led late today to wheat market setbacks that almost erased moderate gains.

Pit specialists said maintenance of wheat price advances was not to be expected until European buying of North American wheat broadened importantly. It was asserted that although on a theoretical basis much heavier export purchases of United States wheat appeared sooner or later inevitable, continued backwardness of foreigners to enter the market on a liberal scale was undermining confidence of speculative holders.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were 1/2 lower to 1/4 higher, compared with yesterday's finish. Dec. 808 1/2, May 891 1/2, corn 1 1/2 down, Dec. 53 1/2, May 56 1/2, and oats 1 1/2 to 1 up.

New London High School Cage Teams Win Opening Tilts

Varsity and 'B' Squads Defeat Waupaca in Non-Conference Games

New London—New London High school cagers won their first games last night as both the varsity and "B" squad defeated the respective Waupaca aggregations in a non-conference tilt at Washington High school gymnasium. The varsity won 23 to 18 and the second string, 16 to 11, in a couple of unpolished performances before a fair crowd.

The Waupaca lads gave the varsity a tussle and led the scoring until the last seconds of the first half when Meinhardt, scored a bucket and two gift shots in quick succession to end the half with the Red and White a point ahead, 13 to 12. A switch by Coach Stacy from zone to man-to-man defense at the half threw the Waupaca lads off their game and the Stacymen controlled the ball the rest of the game though the score continued to see-saw during the third quarter.

Douglas Hoier, a junior, led the bucket brigade with four goals and three free throws. He tried quite a few long shots but narrowly missed each one. The squad as a whole was cage shy during the first half of the game and missed a lot of perfect set-ups. Bernie Stern got two through the hoop on critical occasions and sunk two out of three gift shots.

Waupaca started with plenty of zip, led by Klake, center, and two diminutive forwards, Sage and Solie, who started off with a marker each early in the game.

On the New London squad Stewart Hammerberg replaced Smith at guard at the half and his performance assured Coach Stacy of adequate reserve in that section. Meshnick was new at center but scored one basket and two free throws.

Saturday the Stacymen will have another opportunity to try their basketball ability on a non-conference team when they travel to Wausau in the evening. Both "A" and "B" squads will make the trip in the school bus. The first conference test is scheduled for Shawano Dec. 3.

B Squad Wins
The "B" squad played with a confident air though the preliminary game was a tough see-saw battle during the first half when the score was tied at 3-all and 5-all at the end of the first two periods. The New London boys forged ahead in the last half with Kenneth Brault, a junior, leading the scoring with two baskets and two out of four gift shots.

Except for Brault the team is exactly the championship freshman team of last year. Substitutions were in order in the last quarter and Bud Mavis, Anton Herres, David Stern and Vic Barlow saw action the last 20 seconds but had no time to score.

Brews Drop Three Games in Classic League Contest
